a year is a series of patterns . . .

For some a yearbook brings forth happy memories, and for others, sad; but memories it has for everyone. It follows a pattern, just as a day, a year, a life follows a pattern. It is up to the individual to choose the pattern he will follow, just as the staff chose the pattern for this yearbook.

A pattern attempts to put things together so the important parts match up properly. We have tried to do that in the 1968 Trail.

Even as the unseen elements are important to a pattern, so are they important to a school. A school without individuals working together toward the same goals — whether they be surface or unseen elements — will not see the completion of its pattern as it could have been, should have been.

Although some projects may not be pictured, and some people missed the photographer, we believe they are still important, that unseen element that makes something good a little bit better.

May the Trail continue to be a part of your pattern.

active principals aid growth, improvement

In the five years he has been principal at Wichita High School West, Dr. Edwin Friesen has seen the school grow from an enrollment of 1758 to 2257. He has kept aware of changes in education and developed the curriculum accordingly.

Besides his responsibilities at West, Dr. Friesen has assumed an active role with the Kansas State High School Activities Association, which regulates extra-curricular activities throughout the state. He went as its representative to a conference in Hawaii last summer.

Mr. James Dye, the vice-principal, finds himself confronted with scheduling and discipline problems. The IBM system, now in its second year at West, makes extra work for him in some instances. Mr. Dye has been at West since its opening, first in the Business Department, and then as vice-principal.

Mr. Donald Olson left the Business Department to become assistant principal just two and one-half years ago. His main duties center around activities, their projects, records, finances, and scheduling.

The chief administrator catches up on correspondence during a busy day.

school spirit shows many faces, costumes

School spirit is seldom confined to the playing field; it shows itself in the stands, on the field or floor at half-time, at the ticket lines before the game, and is most evident on the streets after a victory.

Cheerleaders practiced to insure good performances. Band members came early for extra marching practices. Even the downpour at the North football game couldn't dampen their enthusiasm as they continued in spite of it.

Being admitted through the gate to the Homecoming game are Brad Proesch, Barney Carr, Doug Young, Alvin Majors, and Tim Brandt.

With spirits still high at the close of the Homecoming game, the cheerleaders lead the alma mater.

Throughout the year in order to boost the spirit before important games, a pep assembly was held. During these assemblies the coaches and players were introduced and the coaches told the assembly the team's plans and chances.

The band, pep club, student body, and teachers attended. These assemblies helped boost the spirit of the students and gave the teams a more confident feeling.

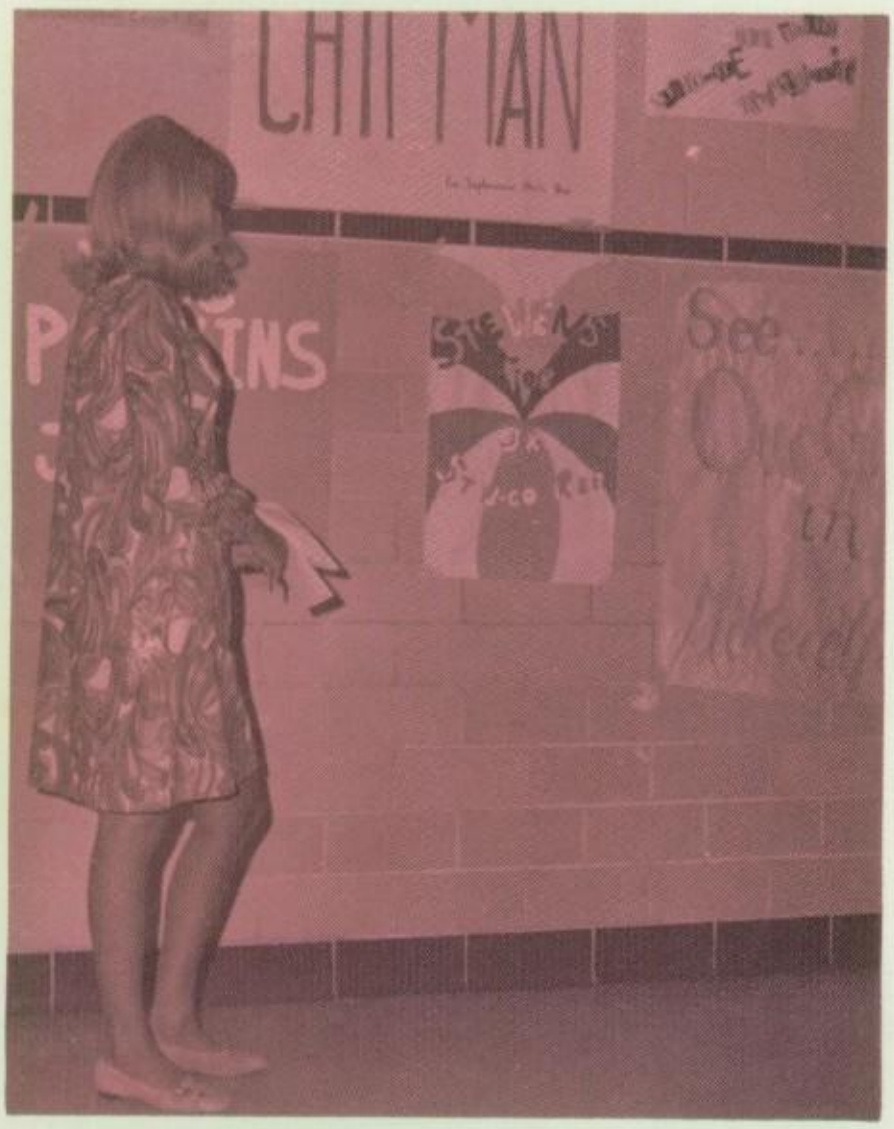
Raising spirit before the Southeast game are some of the Junior Pep Club girls.

voters submit to campaigns, select leaders



Diane Chipman surveys her brother's election poster for the Student Council elections.

Plans for running for class offices must be made long before the actual elections. Hopeful candidates must submit petitions signed by classmates before they can begin campaigns.

Voting, speeches, and varied approaches to campaigning were utilized in the selection of class leaders for the year. Each class attended an assembly to listen to the speakers tell of their qualifications and appeal to class members for their votes. Speakers who were candidates for major offices were each allowed two minutes speaking time. Representatives were given only fifteen seconds to appeal for votes.

The actual voting took place in the foyer during study halls and lunch periods. Booths were set up early in the morning and Student Council members checked voters and distributed ballots.

There were disappointments for some, and congratulations and installation for the chosen few as the winners were pledged to do their best for their classes.

Lyle Brecheisen and Gary Scharnhorst join hands in congratulations after being announced winners of senior class offices.

Conscientious students ponder in the voting booths before marking their ballots.

Sophomores find their seats during the preparation of the orientation assembly.

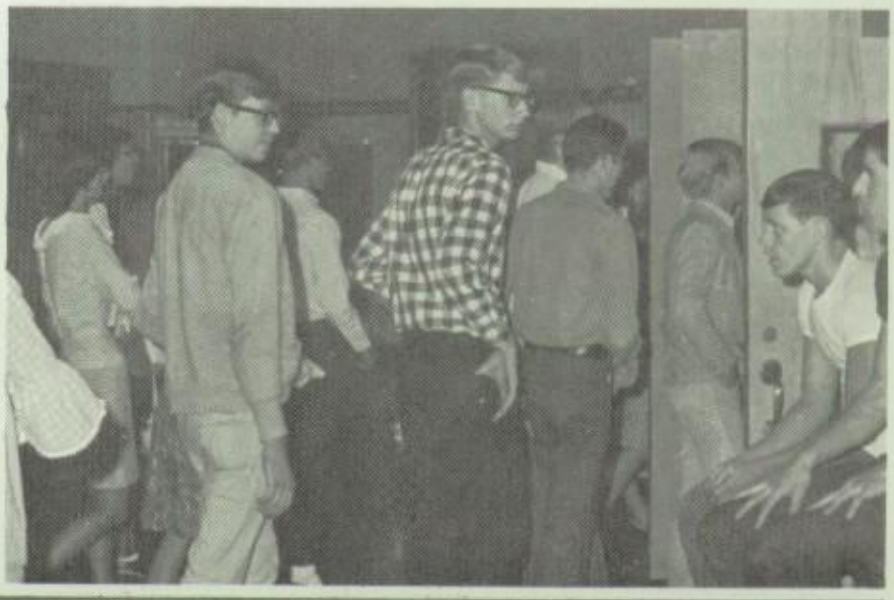
When one views the empty stage, memories of different things that took place there return. First of all, the administration presented an orientation assembly to acquaint newcomers with some of the rules and traditions of West.

Students became better acquainted with school leaders when they were installed. Teasers were presented before plays in order to preview them and invite people to see the full production.

Eagerly anticipated were the sophomore-junior talent assembly and, of course, the senior assembly. The "Toys for Tots" auction provided an hour of entertainment for students as well as Christmas gifts for needy children.

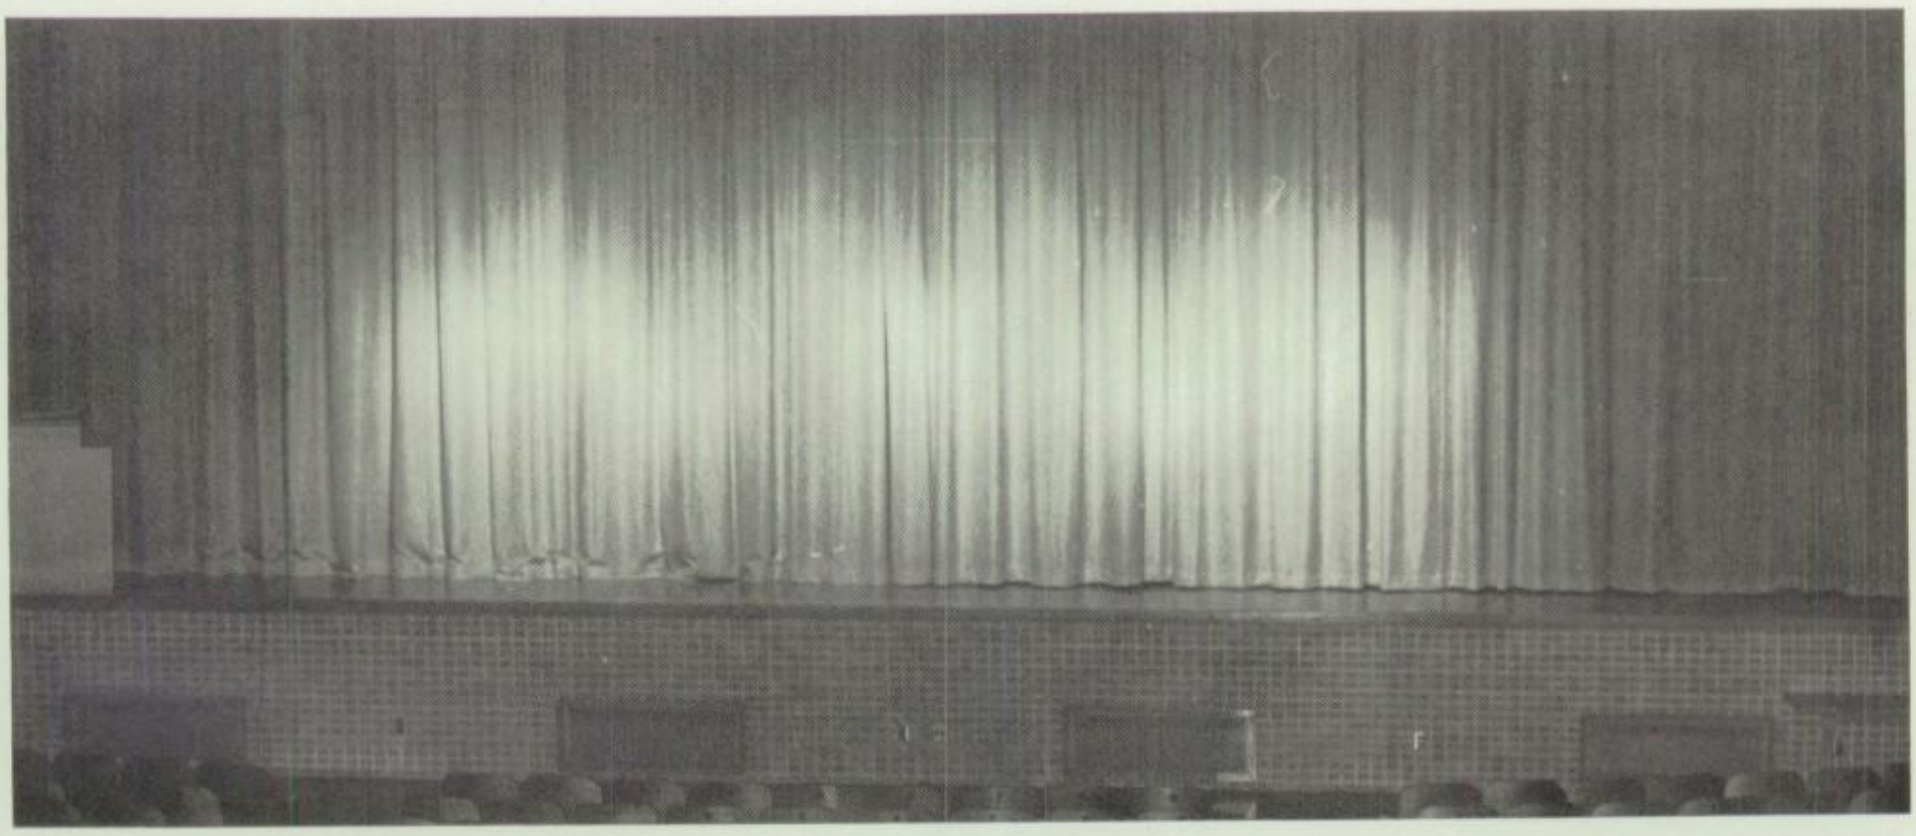
Other assemblies offered travel experience and insight through films and speakers.

Students filed into the auditorium to see the installation of officers.



During assemblies the Security Guard checks the halls for gyppers.

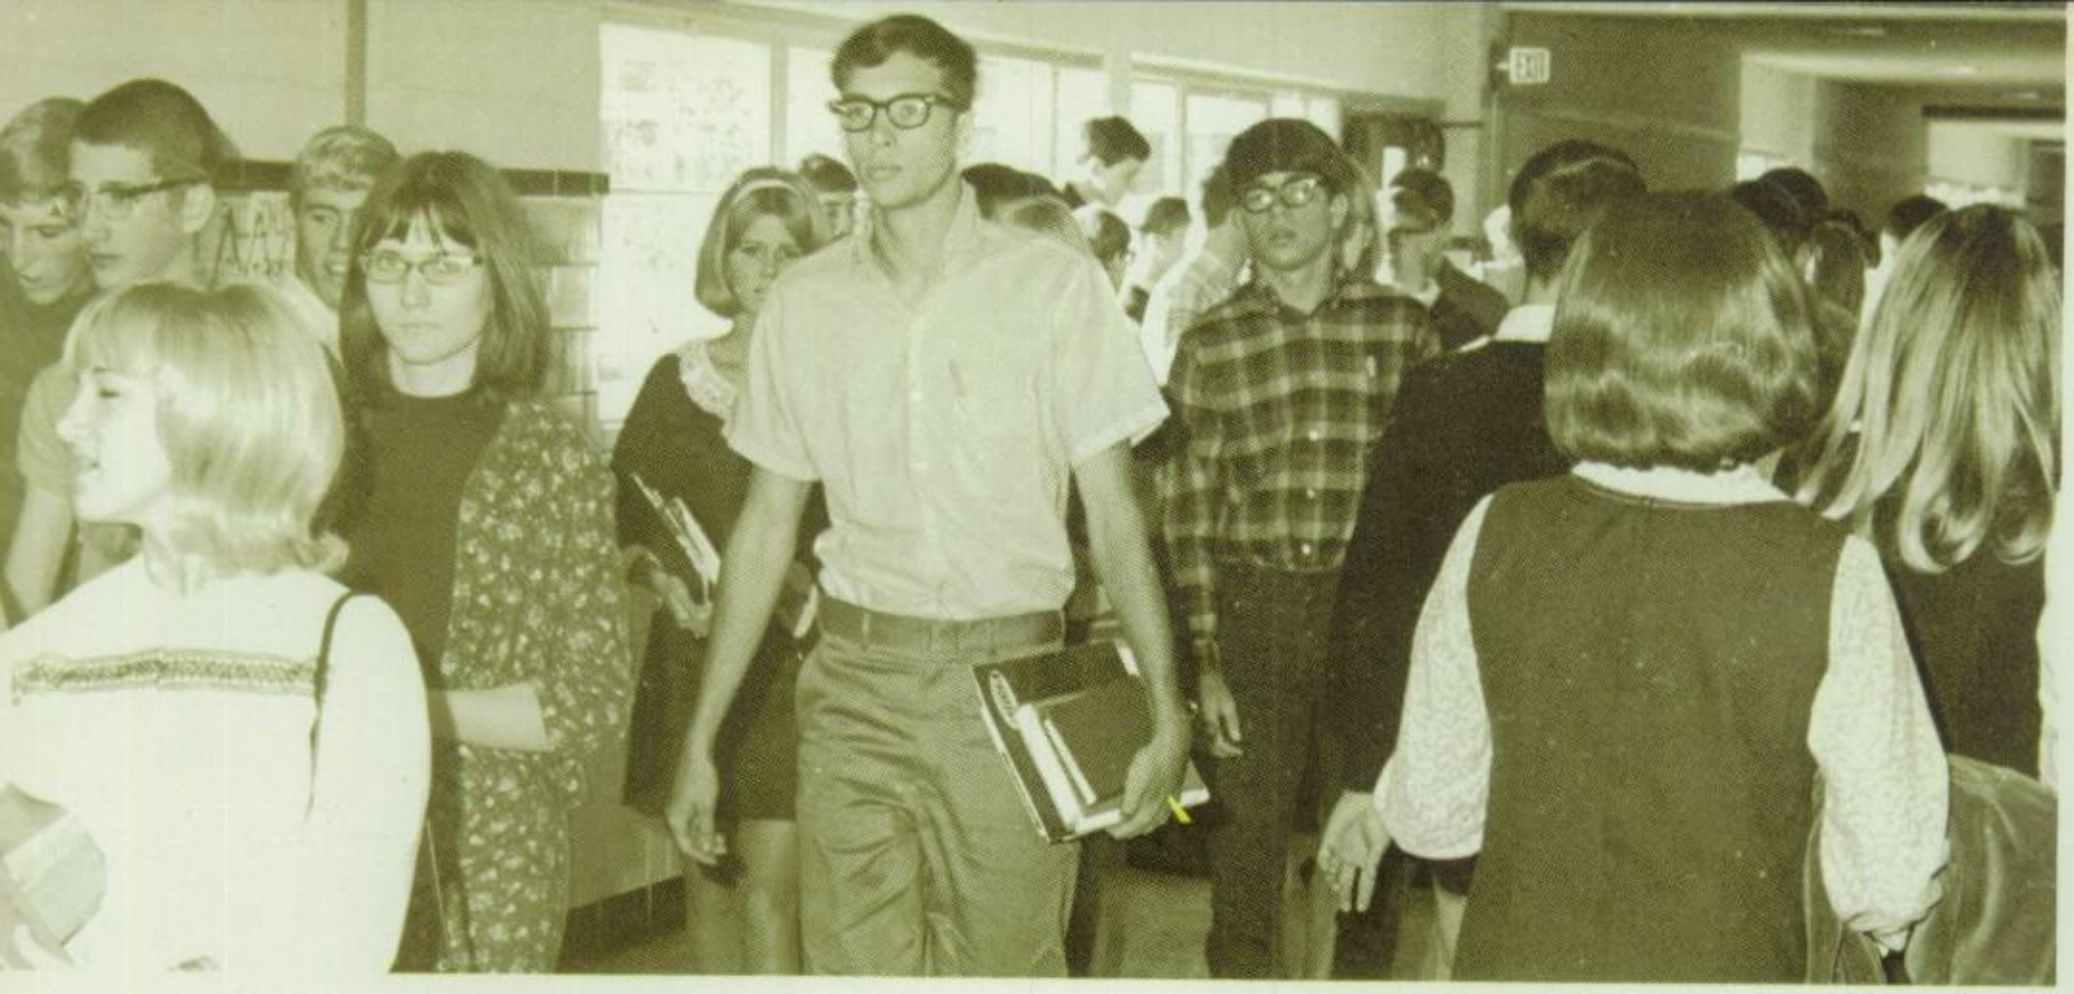
Gary Scharnhorst is sworn in as senior class president during the installation assembly.



The spotlight shines on an empty stage before a performance begins.

Those who attend second assembly try to find something to do besides study.

Teachers standing in back of the auditorium maintain order in assemblies.



In the moments before school D-Corridor is the gathering place for most of the students who have arrived.

building comes alive, shelters all activities

Just as each year has a pattern, so is there a pattern for each day. The day begins early as the custodians and engineers prepare for the arrival of students, some of whom arrive hours before the tardy bell.

The pattern of the day naturally includes classes. The hours and minutes spent outside the classroom are the ones that may be longer remembered than those spent listening to lectures and writing assignments, however.

No doubt the mere mention of a cafeteria brings back memories — of the eternal lines, perhaps of the new snack line, and certainly of the senior table, the jokes and gossip that passed along there, and the food that was consumed during all the lunch hours.

Diane Chipman, Greg Campbell, and Shirley Tharp prepare to leave after school has been dismissed.

And then there were the halls. Students and teachers literally placed their lives on the line when they attempted to hurry through the crowded corridors. Upperclass boys took it upon themselves to hold up the outer wall in D-corridor each morning. There were favorite gathering places for girl watching or boy watching, for gossip, and for last-minute goodbyes. There were always those few, of course, who went to class to study, to the library, or to one of the many before-school meetings or practices.

Those same halls were quickly emptied when the dismissal bell sounded. Some stopped to buy candy; others made last-minute pleas with teachers to accept late assignments. Some hurried on to after-school jobs.

For a few, school went on. Athletes went out for practice. Sometimes, in inclement weather, they practiced running in the halls, but this time it's legal! Candidates and Pep Club girls utilized the minutes of calm to put up posters and banners, and then to take them down again.

Somehow, the pattern never seems to end. The lights burn far into the night as rehearsals, preparations, and maintenance go on and on and on and on.

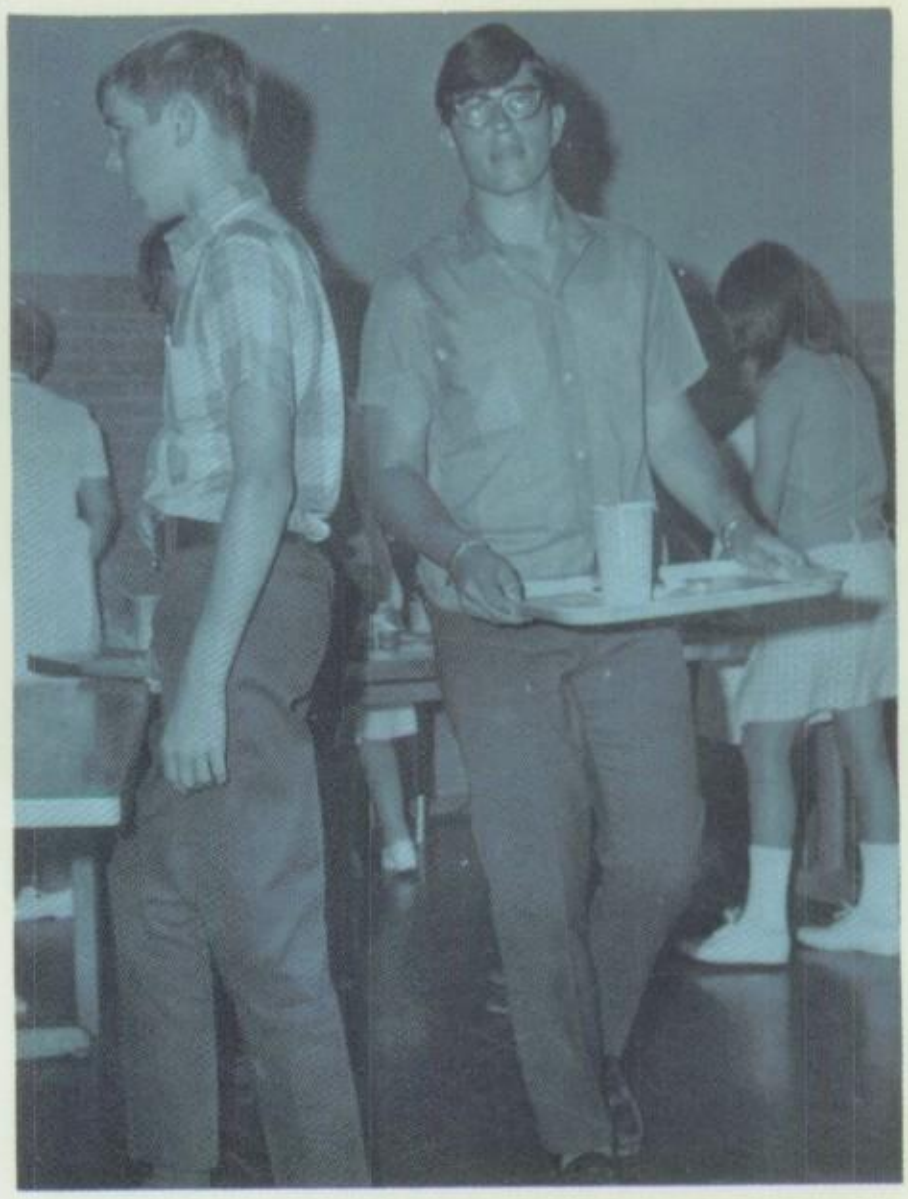
Helping with the victory banner before the East game are Romi Jessup, Dana Jenkins, and Connie Hukle.



Sophomores Greg Lippincott and Len Thomas utilize the new snack line.

Sarah Taylor checks out a book to Becky Hartford during her hour as a library proctor.

Office Practice, Foods Service, and Clothing Maintenance classes assisted other departments and groups by furnishing them with time-saving assistance which also helped the classes in their learning experiences.

Library helpers and proctors assisted in the library, offices, and classrooms whenever there was a need for extra help.

Some projects carried over outside the school. Among those were the fund raising efforts for the United Fund, the making of baby clothes and children's clothes for Viet Nam and Africa, and numerous Christmas-time projects carried on by clubs.

"Mikerella," a take-off on Cinderella, is presented by the Student Council to raise money for the United Fund.

Sewing costumes for "Brigadoon" in the Clothing Maintenance class are Belinda Smith, Margie Estes, and Barbara Loucks.

winter carnival raises project funds

In order to raise funds for the all-school project, Frontier Frolics was held. Clubs of the school participated by setting up and operating booths. Some were ones in which participants could try their skills and others were ones at which some could try their skills on others.

There were seventeen booths in all at the carnival. A small admission fee was charged to enter. The climax of the evening was an all-star faculty basketball game. The basketball players were the coaches and referees. It was a successful and fun-filled evening for all who attended.

many find, pursue non-pedagogic interests

Club activities are always supervised by a faculty member, and the parties and money-raising projects are always attended by many. After-school meetings are scheduled and they discuss future plans and events, make budget requests, and obtain needed information about policies and upcoming functions.

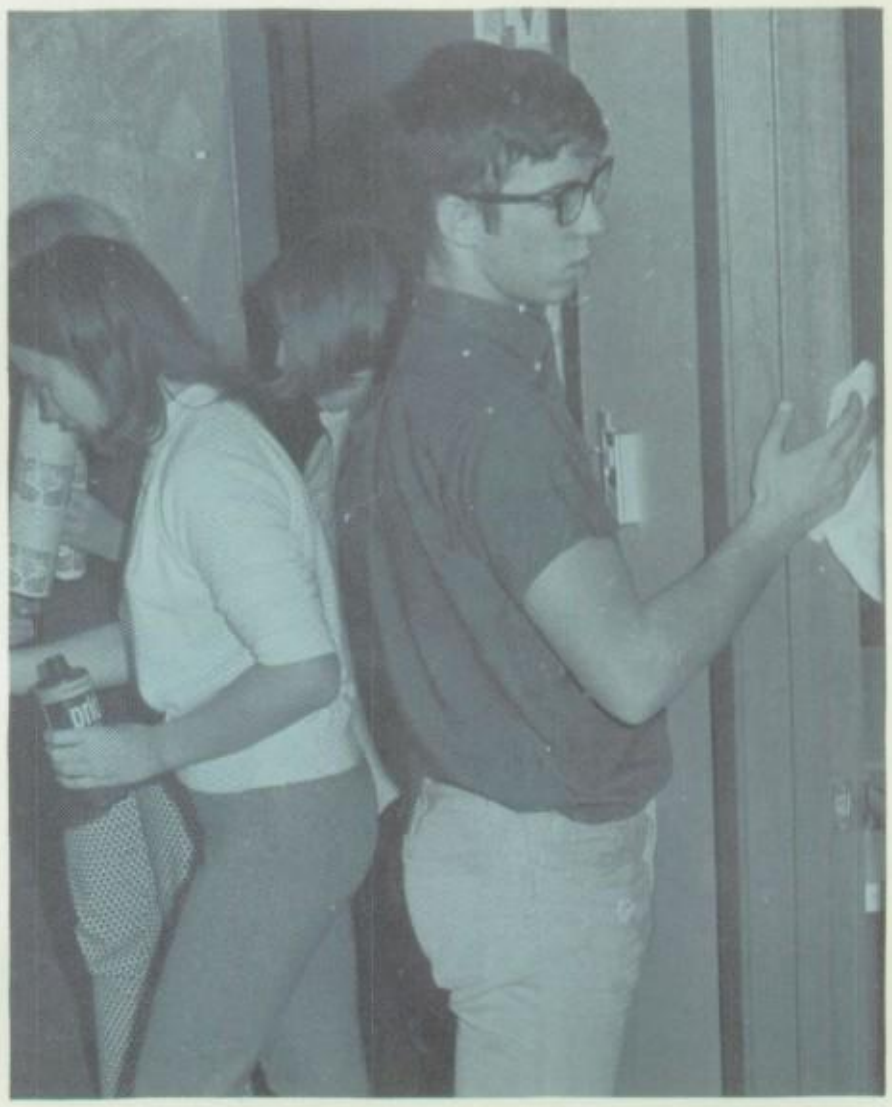
Being human — in spite of rumors to the contrary — each teacher has a home life and hobbies and interests of his own. Some engage in after-hours work at clothing stores, service stations, barber shops, or even in the buying and selling of used cars and airplanes.

Just-for-fun hobbies include travel, refinishing furniture, collecting antiques, and sewing.

Most teachers support families and maintain homes, so they, too, look forward to hurrying home after school to handle the usual household routine, cook dinner, or make some necessary repairs. Many have children enrolled in other schools, so they are expected to attend meetings and functions of those schools as well as those at West.

In order to keep teaching certificates valid and to upgrade teaching skills, teachers are required to obtain more college credits within a specified time. Some travel to other towns for Saturday or evening classes, and others take advantage of local offerings.

All in all, faculty members find their time well taken up by a variety of activities.



The Gabrielsons moved into a new home and Mrs. Shirley Gabrielson persuaded journalism students Diane Pledger, Paula Hendrix, Jeanne Heatherly, and Jack Garlach to assist with the initial polishing.

year of tradition has beginning with mums

To the class of '68 the year brought the responsibility, leadership, and privileges for which they had waited two years. Upperclassmen found that setting good examples for the sophomores and juniors wasn't as difficult as it had seemed the year before. Priority was gained as the incoming seniors took over the senior row in the parking lot, along with two senior tables.

The eagerness and awkwardness of the sophomore year, the pride that came with the arrival of the class rings, all this had been left behind and replaced by a feeling of anticipation as ordinarily routine activities took on a special significance, for the seniors knew there would be no more firsts.

At last the year came to an end, and the graduating class, though sad at the thought of leaving, looked forward with great hope for the future because, in the words of Winston Churchill, "This is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. It is not rather the end of the beginning."

leaders assume responsibility, make plans

The junior year is a year of change. For many juniors, the self-consciousness and strangeness of their sophomore year was replaced by a feeling of self-assurance.

Familiarity with West and its customs enabled the juniors to participate confidently in many school activities. Ordering class rings, collecting material for their research themes, and planning the junior-senior prom were events faced by this year's class.

As the year drew to a close, rings were turned and the class of '69 prepared to accept the responsibilities and traditions of being West High Seniors.

Steve Sims, '69, ponders a question on an important test.

Buses begin the wait for their loads just before 3:30. Some, tired after a day's work, climb aboard slowly; others are eager to begin the homeward conversation.

A class hard at work can usually be seen through the door of F-3 during first hour.

new pioneers learn, become integral part

Feeling at home in a new school with hundreds of new faces is a difficult task, but sophomores soon learned that they were an integral part of life at West.

This year's sophomores experienced many firsts — including a memorable sophomore-junior assembly, as well as royalty and cheerleaders of their own.

This was not only a time for experience, but also a time for change. Each sophomore found that high school offered a wider range of possibilities for participation and education, and learned to adjust to a more active schedule.

By the end of the year these sophomores had become a part of the spirit and pride of West and were ready to take their places as juniors.

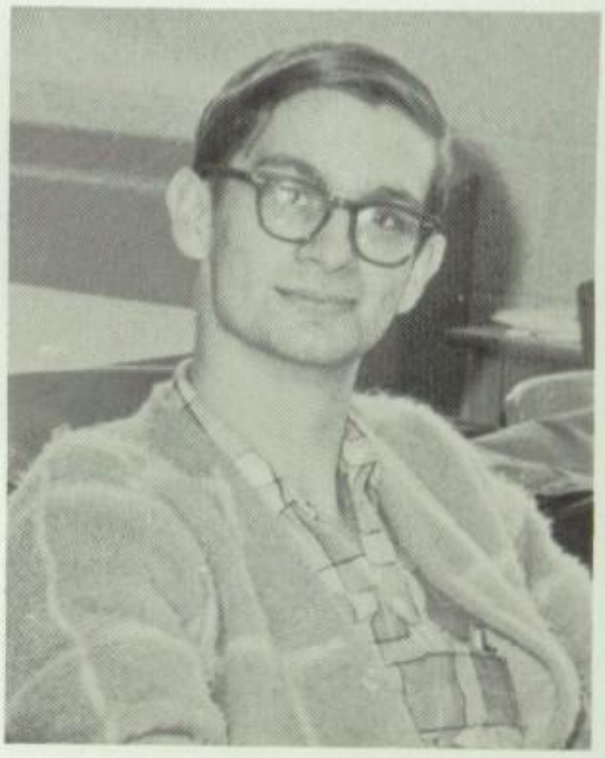
participation, interests bring rewards

For the fourth time, the Trail staff presents the Trail Blazers, students who are chosen in cooperation with the Trail staff and faculty, from a list of seniors who have maintained at least a 3.0 average through four years of high school. Other considerations include leadership, citizenship, and general contributions to the welfare of the school.

These students open the paths for oncoming classes. They may have set records or goals for other students to work toward, to achieve or to surpass. Trail Blazers are truly that — people who have shown that they are able to lead and to work for a better future.



Gary Scharnhorst has been an outstanding debator and actor during his three years at West. He moved up from Vice-President to President of the Junior Class which enabled him to handle the Junior-Senior Prom of 1967. He was elected President of the Senior Class and led his classmates in the many significant projects of their last year. Other activities have included Student Council, Honor Society, Thespians, church work, Boys' State, and band.

DeLee Droll was named Miss Sweetheart of Wichita during her junior year. Her primary contribution to the school has been in her roll as cheerleader and finally, head cheerleader, where she was able to initiate new cheers and movements. She has a strong interest in dance, free exercise, and gymnastics, and has performed in plays and assemblies and has done some choreography.

Carol Price served as President of Future Teachers of America. She has been an outstanding musician during her three years at West, serving as accompaniest to most of the vocal groups as well as participating in others. She has been a member of Pep Club and Student Council and a dependable student in all ways. Carol was elected West's Best in addition to her other honors. She plans to be a teacher and participated in the Volunteer Tutoring Program in preparation for that goal.

Harvey McQuiston applied his language abilities in Spanish as he spent a summer studying under the Foreign Language League in Spain. He also has been a member of Spanish Club. Harvey has been active in Scout work; as an Explorer, he gave speeches for Kiwanis clubs and others. As a junior, he was Lieutenant Governor of Key Club, and was voted to be President as a senior Nancy Roland served as assistant editor of the West Word as a junior and took over the duties of Editor-in-Chief as a senior. She led her newspaper staff through a year of improved issues, and larger ones. Her other activities have included playing flute in the band and pep band, being active in Future Teachers of America, and actively participating in the Student Council where she served on various committees.

Melody Zody began her Student Council work as a representative and was elected President for 1967-68. She has served on Pep Club Cabinet Council. Melody has also done work in debate, forensics, and music. Perhaps her outstanding award came when she received an Elks Outstanding Youth Award; she was one of two winners in Kansas and was eligible for national awards and scholarships. Student Council accomplished several projects under her leadership.

all-school projects, activities unite clubs

As every form of life has an outlet, so does student government serve as a valuable form of self expression. This expression took form in many of the projects which were attempted.

A "Toys for Tots" assembly was sponsored by Student Council to raise money and toys, which were sent to the Marine Corps for further distribution through "Operation Holidays."

Muscular and graceful boys from various athletic squads assisted in assembling "Mikerella," a money-raising project for the United Fund.

Additional projects included flicker nights, fun nights, and magazine sales.

Student Exchange Day was organized among all the city schools to promote better inter-school relations and to give members of student councils an opportunity to visit other schools and meet new people.

Another activity was the decorating of the halls before Christmas when all clubs participated. Perhaps the biggest activity of the year was Frontier Frolics, in which all the clubs again participated. Proceeds went to the All-School Project.

When a student enrolls in a journalism class, he is usually not aware of the many events that take place in that class. Students do everything in writing, from attacking a policy or idea in the school or community, to writing a sports story. Then there are many other significant jobs, such as writing headlines, working on sorting or mailing of the many issues which are mailed to subscribers, selling the newspapers themselves, checking and recording in the files to see how many times a student is in the paper, or perhaps drawing a cartoon.

A student in a class such as this learns out of necessity to be a good writer, and also learns much about world situations and current events. He also becomes more aware of the newsworthy things that are happening around the school. Advertising was sold, which made the journalists come closer in contact with the business world.

At the beginning of the year, meetings were held to discuss color distribution, themes, division page and cover designs, page layouts, and, of course, finances. The staff attended a yearbook workshop, which was sponsored by American Yearbook Company, to help them formulate ideas. This included adding color to every section, and lengthening the yearbook.

large memberships choose careers early

Future Teachers of America followed an active schedule throughout the year. During their meetings, members were shown films and held panel discussions. Among the guest speakers were a student teacher and a women who talked on how to teach the blind.

Participating in school activities, Future Teachers placed second in the Christmas decorating contest and sponsored an all-school playnight.

Outside of school, the members of Future Teachers attended the state FTA convention at Manhattan and an all-day workshop at Wichita State.

Future Medical Careers Club had a busy year. Speakers and films were brought in to cover the two topics which the members chose to discuss during club period.

The March of Dimes assembly was sponsored by Future Med. Club. A bake sale was held and candy was sold after school in order to provide a scholarship for a person who planned to go into the medical profession.

Late in the year, the club took a trip to Oklahoma City in order to take a tour through the medical school there.

ambitious group exhibits work, plans trip

One of the larger clubs this year was Art Club, sponsored by the Art Department, with approximately eighty members. Members of this club are required to be enrolled in an art course and to participate in various activities sponsored by the club.

Members of the club helped paint scenery and sets for an all-school play "Brigadoon" and also participated in the all-school play-night, "Frontier Frolics." Club period was utilized to help get exhibits ready for a Scholastic Art Show and an exhibit by West High students at WSU.

At the close of the 1967-68 debate season, the West debaters, under the direction of Mr. Glenn Blakemore, were able to announce the best season in the history of debate at West.

Gary Scharnhorst and Dan Pierce brought home first experience trophies from Fredonia, Derby, and Bethel College tournaments. Allen Linder and John Pfeifer earned a first novice trophy at Derby and a first experience at Wellington. Allen and Gary claimed a third experience prize at El Dorado and Lane Lloyd and Tom Rudkin brought home a fourth experience award from Wichita Heights.

Bob Haun and Kathy Becker earned a third novice trophy at Augusta. A fourth novice award was claimed at Medicine Lodge by Carol Stevens and Judy Renz.

Trophies are put on display in the showcase soon after they are received.

Club period is used by the French Club to carry out a program planned by their executive council. During club period, first and second-year French students performed skits which were done entirely in French to help the students in the language. Two of the skits done were "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" and "Little Red Riding Hood." Students also viewed movies of French landmarks and churches.

The club participated in the all-school decorating contest and maintained the jail at Frontier Frolics.

skits, songs add to knowledge of others

Several Spanish Club members have learned to play the Spanish version of Hearts for amusement.

First and Second year Spanish students were eligible to be members of the Spanish Club. During the meetings the members wrote and performed skits which were spoken entirely in Spanish. Spanish games are also played. Speakers from Spain or Spanish speaking countries also came to give talks and tell the members of the life and the language of their country. During the year the club participated in the Toys for Tots assembly by donating a stuffed animal. They worked in the decorating contest at Christmas and operated the Wheel of Fortune at Frontier Frolics.

During its second year at West, German Club participated in all the all-school activities for clubs. Small plays, games, and movies were presented to give students the benefits of the language. Panel discussions of the German way of life were also held during club periods.

business oriented clubs enjoy competition

Office Practice gave its members an ample opportunity to apply their business knowledge. One of the club's many projects was putting out an informative booklet on the basketball team. Mrs. Marjorie Patrick took the place of the club sponsor, Mrs. Mary Breen, who left at the end of the semester. There was also a change of presidents at the end of the first semester when Sharon King replaced Stella Manes.

Key Club is a service club sponsored by the West Wichita Kiwanis. Members are selected on basis of grade averages and their leadership potential.

Among the services performed are refereeing at basketball games at the Y, and going to Camp High at the YMCA to clean and build up the camp grounds. They held a car wash and sold fire extinguishers. At Christmas and Thanksgiving they distributed food baskets to families in Wichita. Decorating B-corridor was their assignment for the Christmas decorating contest and they operated the dart throw at Frontier Frolics.

In the spring of the year, they attended the State convention for Key Clubs. The Lieutenant-Governor for the Southeast division of Kansas, Harvey McQuiston is from the West Key Club.

aid to others, respect applied as mottoes

Safety Club President, Cathy Wehby, places a ticket on an incorrectly parked car.

Red Cross Club's Motto was "If you can push somebody up the hill, it gives you a boost too," and the members lived up to it. This year they supplied chests and kits for overseas relief, participated in Operation Holiday, and gave a party for the children at St. Joseph Hospital.

Safety Club's goal was to instruct its members on the many aspects of safety. This was accomplished with the use of films and discussions during club period. The club's main project was supervision and control of the parking lot. In November some of the members attended the Governor's Safety Conference in Topeka.

class-affiliated groups propagate learning

During many of their club periods, members of the Reading Club viewed films or worked on reading improvement.

In order to give students in the reading center an opportunity to enjoy films, discussions of books, and consequently, to promote enjoyment of reading, the Reading Club was formed. This club took part in many all-school activities and held a Christmas party. To raise funds for their treasury, a continuous paper drive was held throughout the year.

The smallest club this year, the Science Club, spent much of its meeting time preparing projects for the Science Fair.

Chess Club met in the library during club periods, where members competed with each other and played expert chess. Their city trophy is on display in the library and holds a place of honor during meetings. In past years, there were inter-school competitions, which West usually won, but the club has not been able to find opponents from other schools for some time.

Home Economics Club, which was new this year, furnished an opportunity for interested girls to add to their knowledge and abilities in the area of home economics and to get to know the people who share the same interests. Their activities included such things as preparing and serving dinners and hearing speakers explain opportunities and problems in the field.

athletic achievements earn membership

Lettermen's Club accomplished many objectives that the club had strived for. One of the major projects was the purchase of a foul indicator for all basketball games played in the gym. The Sportsmanship Code Banner was finally completed and hung in the boys' gym.

The club had an enrollment of nearly one hundred lettermen who participated in the many club functions. Club members could always be seen selling programs, concessions, and booster buttons.

One of the major projects for the Letterwomen was the Junior High Playday that they sponsored to acquaint the students with the West gym facilities and activities. A girl could become a member of Letterwomen by accumulating enough points gained by participating in intramural sports.

preparation, hard work bring fun, profit

All-school projects helped unite the clubs and build friendships. It was through these combined efforts that students learned the true meaning of cooperation and what rewards it can bring.

The Toys for Tots assembly and auction was made possible through such combined efforts. Each group decided on some item which could be auctioned off for the points the students had obtained through donations of good used or new toys for the annual Marine Corps project. Auctioned items ranged from a slave-for-a-day to over-sized stuffed animals and real live pets.

The next of these projects was the traditional one of decorating the halls for Christmas. Student Council offered cash awards for the best decorations. These were won by the Home Economics Department, Future Teachers of America, and the new Distributive Education club.

Also, adding to the Christmas festivities was the second Cutest Claus contest sponsored by the West Word. Students cast penny votes for the cutest baby pictures furnished by faculty members. Winners of this honor for 1967 were Dr. Edwin Friesen and Mrs. Carol Emmons.

Clubs went their separate ways, meeting on alternate Wednesdays, until the new semester began. Then the competition increased as memberships were opened once again. Some changed clubs and others decided to participate.

The final all-school project was Frontier Frolics, again sponsored by the Student Council. Big plans were made as Clubs decided which booths to sponsor. All profits went to the fund which paid for the all-school project for 1967-68, carpeting the library.

honors, activities combine for busy year

The purpose of Pep Club is to promote school spirit among the student body. The girls spent much of their time involved in such activities as painting posters, cheering at the games, attending pep assemblies, and co-operating in the development of a victory banner.

In its second year of existence, Honor Pep gained more members as the girls worked to support the teams. To be admitted to Honor Pep, the members had to accumulate 150 points during football season. These points were gained by work on the things listed above. To remain in Honor Pep, a member was required to go to all but four varsity basketball games, attend one regional game and all but two meetings, make twenty posters, and attend a combination of seventy minor sports activities.

During the year, several contests were held. In the float contest at the homecoming game, the junior class placed first, with the sophomore class second, and the senior class third. In the poster contest, the juniors again placed first. The posters were judged on such points as the quality and quantity of posters and the carrying out of the theme.

Results of the enthusiastic Pep Club spirit were manifested in the amount of school spirit exhibited at all the games, the gym walls vibrating with cheers at the pep assemblies, and the halls being plastered with posters.

polished performances mark of singers

Mr. J. Ellis Jackson led the vocal music groups through an active year. Mrs. Judy Fear taught half-time at West and directed the Sophomore Girls Glee Club.

Hi-Larks was a group made up of ten of the school's best vocalists; they performed at all musical programs at the school as well as at several special functions. These included club meetings for civic organizations as well as such events as the Student Council sponsored Honor Roll Tea in February.

Another group made up of some of West's best singers is Westerners. They also performed for civic groups and special occasions.

The larger groups, Choir, Men of West, and Sophomore Girls Glee Club, sang at the several concerts and assemblies which were planned by the Vocal Music Department.

Repertoire for the groups ranged from very classical to semi-classical, show tunes, and some of the contemporary numbers.

The West High School Symphonic Band was composed of a well-balanced instrumentation, to provide opportunities for performance and to allow advancement of musical understanding. They marched at all home football games and provided entertainment at assemblies at West and at junior highs. In addition, the band and orchestra performed at full-length concerts during the year, and participated in both the city and state festivals. The orchestra provided students with the opportunity to perform some of the fine symphonic literature, both works by the masters as well as contemporary composers. This year, members played for "Brigadoon" and accompanied the Choir in their annual presentation of the "Messiah."

The orchestra also performed for full-length concerts and junior high assemblies. As a highlight to the year, the orchestra spent one day entertaining students at Mound Ridge and Inman high schools.

beginners spend long hours at practice

Members of the Pep Band met second hour and worked together to add to school spirit. These students combined co-ordination, consideration, and poise to participate in many intricate formations on the football field. The students played at all the home games, pep assemblies; and, during football season, combined with the concert band for half-time entertainment.

Sophomore Girls Glee Club was composed of girls who wanted a chance to develop their singing skills. This was accomplished by participation in several concerts. A sophomore ensemble was formed to sing in the Sophomore-Junior talent assembly.

true love brings about one more miracle

The story of Brigadoon unfolded magically to the audience through gay dances, delightful songs, and the outstanding acting abilities of the cast.

The curtain opened on two Americans, Tommy Albright and Jeff Douglas, who were lost in the Scottish Highlands. They soon discovered the mysterious village of Brigadoon and almost immediately were captivated by the charm of the inhabitants.

Tommy and Jeff were puzzled by what they had heard, and their inquiries led them to Mr. Lundie, who told them of the miracle the town's reverend had asked for, and the conditions under which it was granted.

At the end of the day, just as Brigadoon was vanishing in the mist, Tommy gave up his plans to stay in Brigadoon with Fiona, with whom he had fallen in love, and went back to New York with Jeff.

Haunted by the memory of Fiona, Tommy went back to Brigadoon to spend his life with the one he loved.

The complete cast lines up for a final curtain call.

the night of January 16th

audience becomes jury in authentic setting

The Winter play, "The Night of January 16," was presented January 9, 11, and 13. Two of the performances were at the Sedgwick County Court House; the first one was in the high school auditorium for students.

This play was the murder trial of a young woman who was accused of throwing her employer off the roof of his New York penthouse.

The play itself was rather unusual in that the jury was selected from the audience. Slips of paper were signed by viewers who were willing to accept jury duty, and twelve names were picked at random from these.

The cast never really knew what the verdict would be at the end, but they were ready with two endings.

Karen Andre was found not guilty at two performances, and at the last performance, she was found guilty.

King Larry Sommerhauser and Queen Cathy O'Connor open the gifts which serve as souvenirs of this special evening.

On Saturday, October 28, "Kick-Off Kapers" opened to the music of the Downbeats. The annual Homecoming dance was sponsored by the Pep Club to celebrate the closing of the football season. Centerpieces on the tables were miniature covered wagons with the theme written on the side.

DeLee Droll and Jim White reigned as king and queen at the dance. Junior attendants were Susan Eubank and Kirk Doll. An added line of royalty new this year were the sophomore attendants, Sue Imboden and David Butler.

Winter Carousel, the senior-class sponsored dance was held on Saturday, February 3, and was attended by about 240 people. Music was provided by The Lion's Mane.

Co-chairmen of the Coronation Committee, Linda Kraus and Linda Downing, were forced to find a replacement when one of the crown-bearers became ill.

Queen Cathy O'Connor received a necklace bearing the West High crest, and King Larry Sommerhauser was presented with a similar tie tack.

Decorations for the dance were designed by Nan Daughterty and Linda Volz. Two shades of blue were predominant in the color scheme and small carousels were placed at each table as a centerpiece.

Eric Johnson attempts to break up a pass against South.

Under the direction of a new coaching staff headed by Mr. Harold Brandenburg, the Pioneers ended a successful season.

The Pioneers went into the season with a thirty-three game winning streak and the pressure was really on them as they dropped the first game to Ark City.

After their first setback, the squad began to roll against Heights, but then ran into a brick wall. Three consecutive losses — to Southeast, North, and East — virtually killed all hopes of West winning a fourth-straight City League Title.

Bradenburg's team, in the following weeks after losing to East, hit its stride and tucked away the four final games.

The final assault began against South when the team completely out-played and shut-out South. Then the team traveled to Newton where West played one of their best games of the season and beat Newton soundly. After beating Newton, the Pioneers looked like the perennial powerhouse of the previous three years as they put a foothold on third place by swamping Kapaun.

The final game was played against Bishop Carroll where West gained third place in the City League and ended a season of many hardships.

soph, b teams end fateful seasons

The "B" team opened the season by rolling over East, but the following week lost to a stout team from Kapaun.

After squeaking by North and Carroll, the squad ran into trouble. The final two games were hard-fought battles with the opponents, Heights and South, coming out with the victories.

The Sophomore team's record may appear to be unimpressive, but it is no indication of how well the team performed.

In their only victory, the Baby Pioneers showed unhidden power by defeating Carroll. Many of their games were lost by no more than six points. The squad played many games right down to the finish only to have the opponent come out on top.

Jim Parks strains to beat teammate Norman Mehl in the West Invitational

With a plentiful supply of returning lettermen in cross country, West closed out its season with a good showing at Wamego where the state meet was held. Coach Ray Graham's harriers proved to be a stubborn team in the competition as they gained two first places in invitationals. They won the West and Heights Invitationals by showing strong team effort with many good individual performances. In other competition the team placed third in the East Invitational, fifth in the Emporia Invitational, sixth in the North Invitational, and third in the Southeast Invitational.

In the City League Meet, West gained fourth place, then went on to the regionals where the team tied Heights to gain a third place berth to go on to the state meet. At the state meet, the harriers earned eighth place.

Led by seniors Norman Mehl and Jim Parks with help from juniors Steve Baker and John McCarthy, West showed an improved team from the previous year.

The finmen this year sent a strong and experienced squad to the state meet at Lawrence.

After getting off to a slow start in dual meet competition, Coach Ray Graham's swimmers picked up after three successive setbacks. The team lost its first three dual meets by a total of six points.

Led by senior Mike Helfrich and junior Dave Nix, the team placed fifth in the Wichita City League Meet.

The teams biggest assets at the state meet were Dave Nix and diver Dale Wilson. Nix placed second in 400-yard freestyle and third in 200-yard freestyle. Dale placed fifth in diving to give West a tenth place finish.

four pass regional tests, compete at state

Wrestling this past year took a turn for the better. Under the guidance of Coaches Robert Lytle and George Taylor, the team compiled an over-all season record of three wins and five losses in dual meet competition. The grapplers defeated Winfield, South, and Southeast. Many of the other dual meets were lost by only a few points.

Led by brothers Joe and Pat Morell, and Terry Bader, and Phil Meeks, the team placed high in district competition. In the regional, the matmen placed one who went on to the state meet at Arkansas City.

The "B" team had a very successful year closing the season with a first place finish at the "B" team Invitational Tournament. Dual meet competition found the team showing an impressive record over previous years.

well-rounded squad enjoys peak season

Led by seven seniors, the gymnastics team came out with an unusually successful season's record.

Team leaders Rick Green and Bob Blackburn placed high in regional competition and then went on to the state meet where the team ranked fifth. West took a first place at the North Invitational, a fifth at the East Invitational, and a fourth at the Medicine Lodge Invitational.

At the City League Meet, the gymnasts placed fourth.

After a slow start, the cagers progressed steadily, upsetting tenth-ranked North during the second half of the season. Starting the season with a strong showing against Shawnee Mission West, the Pioneers faced number-one ranked Southeast where the Buffs showed their superior prowess.

Following Southeast, the cagers ran into a hard-luck streak, winning only two of seven games prior to tournament competition.

In the West Invitational, West defeated Valley Center and Derby to gain a berth in the championship. In the finals, South defeated West 64-59 to gain the championship.

Entering the second-round action, the cagers defeated Kapaun, North, and Manhattan. The regionals saw West gain fourth place.

The "B" team completed a fine season with a final record of 10-6. The record is somewhat misleading because at one time during the season they lost three games in a row by a total of five points. Some consolation can be gained because they defeated every school except North at least once in the campaign.

This year's sophomore team had a successful season. Under the direction of new coach Mr. Kenneth Diskin, the team compiled a 6-6 record. The team suffered early season growing pains, and many had forecast a rather doubtful season.

The Baby Pioneers finally found themselves as a unit and won a fifth-place finish in city league play.

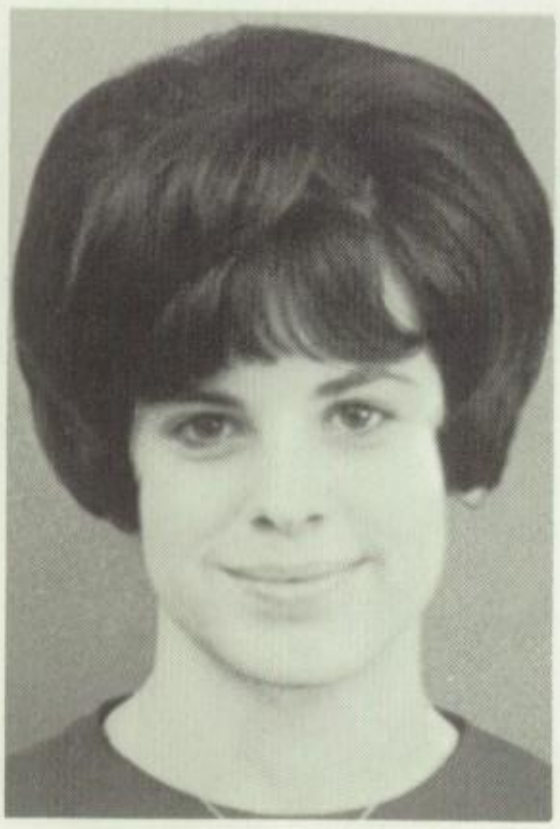
The last few weeks of school always bring a number of awards for achievements throughout the year. Among these were a National Merit Scholarship for Theresa Phillips, a full art scholarship for Dana Jinkins, and thousands of dollars in other scholarships. The best actor and actress awards were given at the Thespian Banquet held May 16. "Brigadoon" earned the most awards for its cast members.

Office Practice once again won many honors in state and national competition. Among these were most outstanding Office Education student, Outstanding Office Education Club of Kansas, and third outstanding club in the nation. They also won the first-place award for the club manual. The club took three second places, four fourth places, and one fifth place. Distributive Education won two third places.

Chosen best actress at the Thespian Banquet was Jackie Grable; best thespian, Valerie Swarts; best supporting actress, Vickie Wilson; and best supporting actor, Dave Davis.



Rose Marie Schimidt was chosen as Office Education Student of the year in Kansas and she was also elected national secretary at the National Convention.

Theresa Phillips is shown here receiving a scholarship from Kansas University. She was the only National Merit Scholarship Winner from West, and the only girl winner in Wichita.

spring play

'seventeenth summer' brings love, maturity

The spring play, Seventeenth Summer, was about a 17-year-old girl, Angie, who never dated in high school and fell in love her seventeenth summer. Angie had to contend with a younger sister who thought boys were stupid. At the end of the summer, Angie decided to go to college and wait with her love life. An unusual aspect of this play was that Angie narrated each act.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Angie	Sharon Wilks
Mother	Jackie Grable
Father	John Aley
Margaret	Jill Reyes
Lorraine	Vonna Calahan
Kitty	Diane Powell
Martin	Pat Butler
Jack	Rick Smethers
Tony	Kenny Sanderson
Fritz	Jim Cooper
Margie	Molly McQuire
Jane	Nancy Sommerhauser

Lorraine introduces her date to her mother while her sister Kitty ignores them.

Margie tells Angie about a new boy she would like Angie to meet.

Angie listens to the advice of her older, engaged sister.

signing party, prom, election final events

Two of the most looked forward to events at the end of the year are the election of new cheerleaders and the receiving of the yearbooks.

This was no exception. After the cheerleading clinic, the girls were chosen to be in the finals. From these girls the cheerleaders were chosen. The former junior cheerleaders were elected and the two sophomore B-team cheerleaders. There were four junior and two sophomore girls chosen.

To receive the yearbooks, activity ticket holders went to the signing party. There the books were distributed and signed too. To increase the yearbook fund, pens and plastic covers were sold.

arabian night comes alive at last dance

The Jr.-Sr. Prom, "Scheherazade," recreated an Arabian Nights theme. It was held at the Cotillion April 20. Music was provided by "The Fabulous Apostles."

Decorations had an Arabian Nights effect to correspond with the prom theme. The dance floor was completely encircled by big life-like posters of Arabian dancing girls. As one walked under an archway draped with a sheath and tassles, he met a life-like manikin dressed in Arabian type attire. Each table was decorated with a basket of paper flowers.

The Junior class, led by Lyndy Langford, was in charge of the decorations and arrangements for the prom.

Two annual and traditional performances given by the students and teachers here are the Easter performance of the Messiah and the Senior assembly.

The performance of Handel's Messiah was given April 10 to the general public in the auditorium and April 11 to the student body. There were 16 solos performed by music students chosen by the music director, Mr. J. Ellis Jackson. Mr. Duane Braler, a student teacher from Bethel College, helped on the production.

In this year's Senior assembly, the seniors relived "The Dirty Dozen Years," a playback on their school career from kindergarten to graduation. There were ten skits, including a stork walk, a song, a band, an acrobatic routine, a drum solo, and a duet.

Wichita Public High Schools' Senior Convocation, Classes of 1968, was held at the Wichita State University Field House, Sunday, May 19, 1968.

The program was presided over by Dr. Lawrence H. Shoepiser, Superintendent of Schools. The organ preludes were played by Mr. Robert Pelltee and "America the Beautiful" was sung by students from all the Wichita Public High Schools. They were directed by Mr. L. K. Bodecker. An invocation was read by the Reverend W. S. Hartsfield. Choral Music was sung by a selected choir. They sang Schubert's "Kyrie," and Wagner's "Pilgrim's Chorus." Mr. C. E. Strange, principal of North High School, then introduced the speaker, Dr. Roy F. Ray, President of Friends University. His speech concerned "Recognition of the Importance of Moral and Ethical Values in the Education of Youth." Benediction was given by the Reverend Max Morgan, President of the Wichita Council of Churches.

Dr. Roy R. Ray of Friends University talks to the students of moral and ethical values.

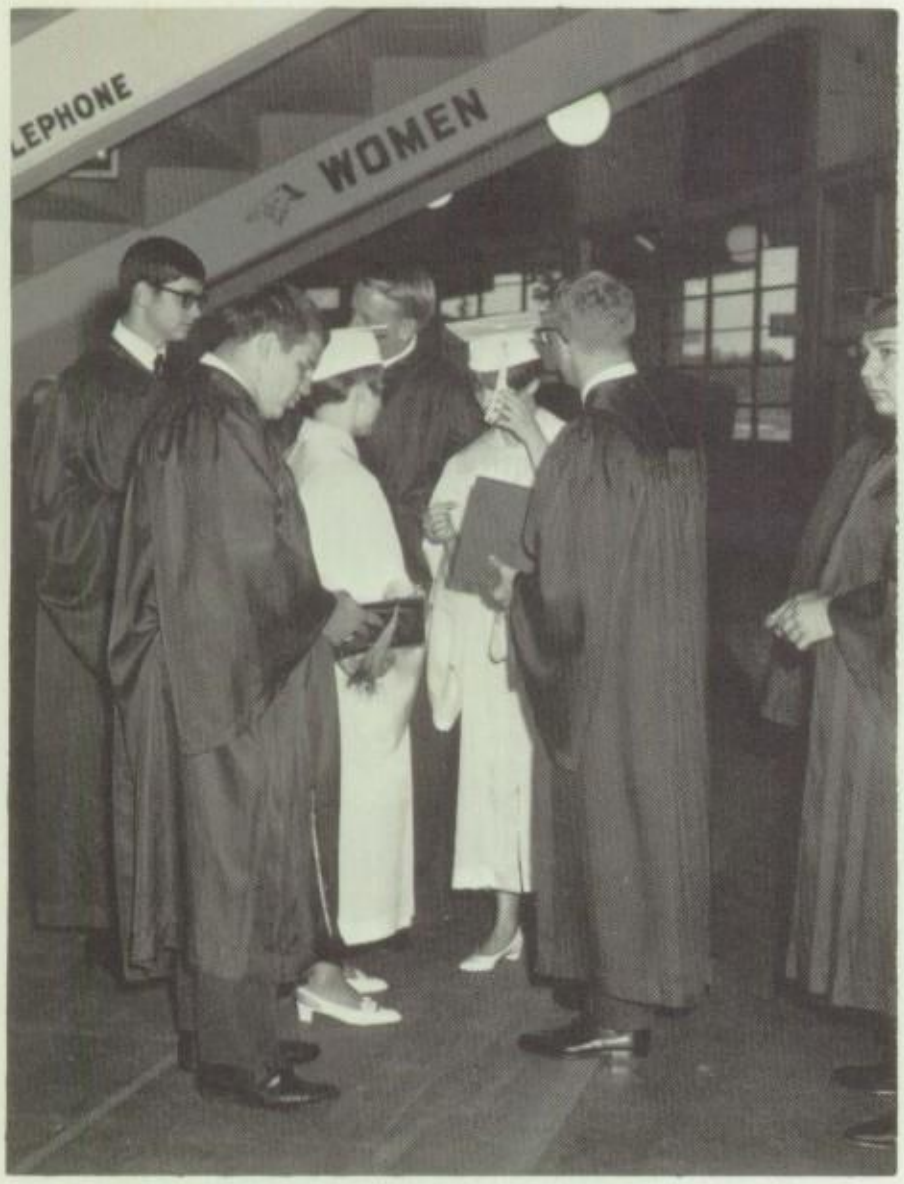
Here gathered in the Field House are the graduating seniors of all six Wichita High Schools in the first phase of their graduation exercises.

Speakers and class officers sit on the stage while the chorus sings.

Dr. Edwin Friesen congratulates Sandy Carson after she receives her diploma.

commencement

nostalgia, fear among graduate's emotions



The full impact of what graduation means hits these seniors as they wait to march in and officially graduate.

Commencement for the class of '68 was held Thursday, May 23, at the Wichita State University Field House. As the graduates filed in, many could be seen with tears in their eyes, possibly remembering past moments from their years at West. After the ceremonies and exciting moments were over, most realized that they were off to the most challenging years of their lives.

Speakers Mary Railey and Gary Scharnhorst gave commencement speeches on "Bridge Builders to Eternity" and "The Sense of Value" respectively. After the presentation of diplomas, Marcus Dowty led the class in the final singing of the Alma Mater.

The choir, led by Mr. Ellis Jackson, sang two songs, "Mountains" and "You'll Never Walk Along."

With mixed feelings about graduation, graduating seniors listen to the ceremony.

Junior girls served as usherettes to seat the crowd.

Mr. J. Ellis Jackson leads the choir in the songs "Mountains," and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Mary Railey and Gary Scharnhorst were chosen as the commencement speakers at the 1968 commencement exercises.

Tom Wray, Scott Wiggins, Terry Yarnell, Glen Baker, Jim Green, Darrell Mains, and Dennie Bretz, coach.

bleak prospects turn to improved season

Tennis this season took a turn for the better. After a dismal 1967 season and only two returning lettermen, the outlook was pretty grim. The team gained sophomore Scott Wiggins, along with Glen Baker, Terry Yarnell, Tom Wray, Darrell Mains, and Jim Green. These six compiled a 5-2 dual meet record. The only losses were to Southeast and Kapaun. Both meets were closely fought only to see the opponent emerge as victor.

The "B" team fared extremely well, however. The team finished with a 4-3 record. All three losses were by only one point; they were to South, Southeast, and North. Three of the four victories were clean sweeps of 9-0; the other victory was against Kapaun, 6-4.

Tom Wray shows a look of anguish as he returns the ball.

Scott Wiggins returns the balls as teammate Terry Yarnell looks on.

heartbreaker shatters state title hopes

Starting off with five victories before their first defeat, baseball enjoyed a victorious season.

Alvin Majors was the mainstay on the mound with a 6-0 win-loss average. Also appearing was senior Randy Higgins with a 2-1 record.

The team beat East in the regional at Lawrence Stadium only to have Southeast completely shatter hopes of another state championship.

harriers set new records, go on to state

Led by seniors Jeff Bickel, Bill Beck and Tom Eli, the track team finished the season with a happy ending.

The team finished no lower than fourth in any meet except for the state meet. Firsts were gained at the West Invitational, Heights, and Southwestern. One second place was gained at the WSU Relays and four thirds in other meets.

Many new records were set this year. The two-mile relay gained a new City League record, Tom Eli tied for the fastest time in the 100-yard dash, Bill Beck won the 180-low and 330-yard intermediate hurdles at the league meet. All relays were equalled or broken except for one.

A team of 18 was sent to the regional at Hutchinson and the mile relay, medley relay, and three individuals advanced to the state meet.

senior squad suffers first dual losses

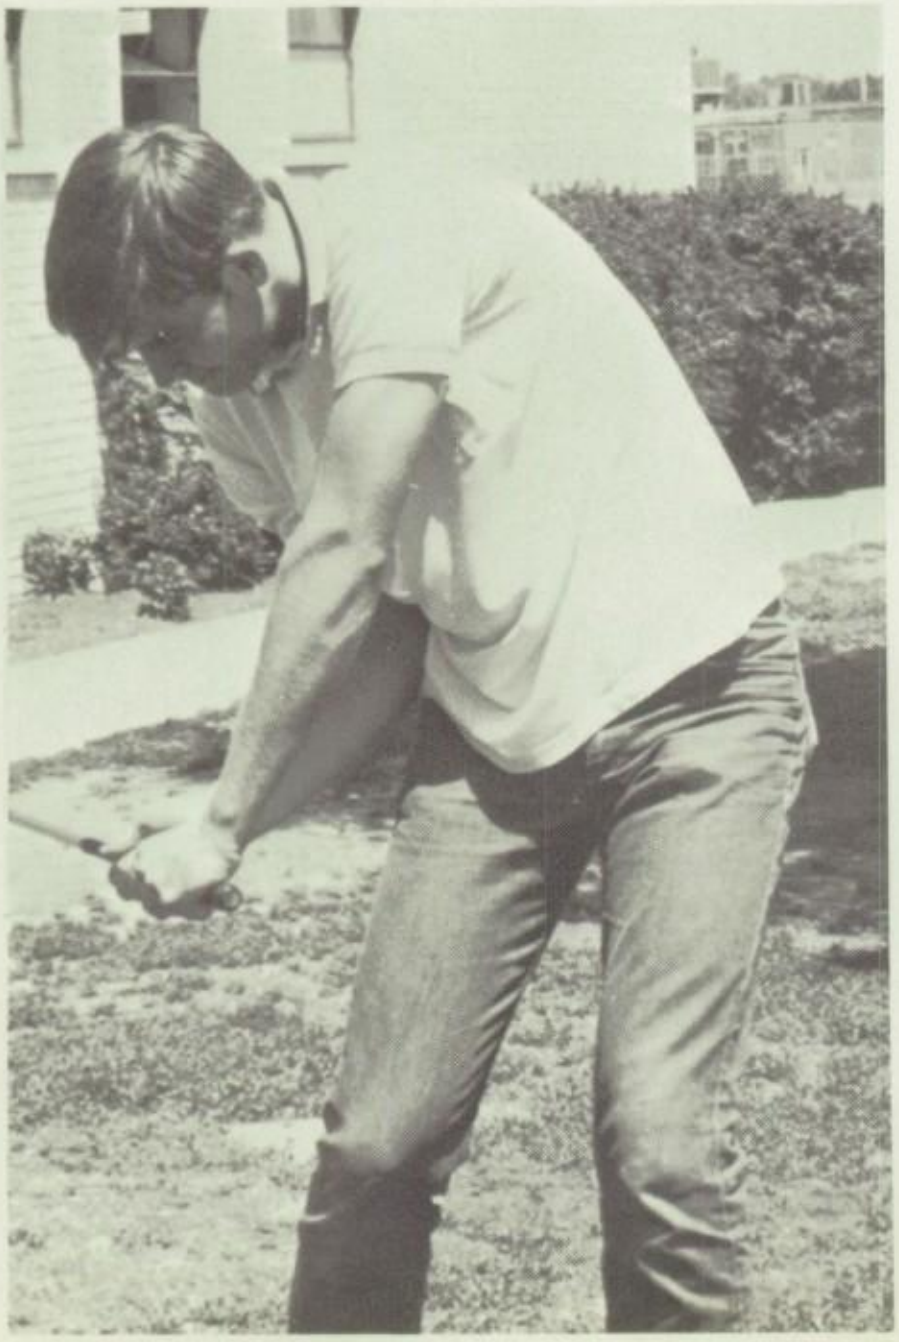
Although the golf team had a successful year, it was in some ways disappointing.

The team was composed of Gary Holland, Eric Johnson, Gary Johnson, Mike Helfrich, Byron Dienstbach, and Richard VanLeeuwen.

Ending with a 5-2 season record in city play, the squad was defeated by Kapaun and East. These were the first losses in three years of dual meet competition. The record was good enough for a second place in city league play.

Highlights of the season included a third place in the Salina Invitational in the 23-team field; first in the City League Meet in two-man competition, and second in four-man and first in Regional two-man competition and third in four-man.

The state meet was held at Rolling Hills Country Club; West was host. The two-man team, composed of Gary Holland and Eric Johnson, gained third-place honors at the state meet.



Gary Holland shows the form that gained him third-place honors at the state meet.

The last days of school are busy ones, and they seem to follow a traditional pattern. There are the lost books which must be paid for before grade cards will be mailed, and there are the pranks. The busy rooms and parking lot take on that deserted look as they are left nearly idle for three months. But before that happens, there is the last-minute rush to finish incompleted jobs — the supplement for the yearbook staff and grade cards and reports for the teachers.

As each year follows a pattern, so did this past year. It was filled with happy as well as unhappy experiences. For some, it was a pattern of achievements and failures, trials and tribulations. We, the members of the Trail staff, would like to thank our sponsor, Mrs. Shirley Gabrielson; Mr. Frank Wright of the American Yearbook Company, our publisher; Mr. Les Orr and Mr. Merle Jones of Student Photos, our photographers.

They helped us formulate our patterns as we hope we have helped you formulate yours.

a year is a series of patterns . . .

For some a yearbook brings forth happy memories, and for others, sad; but memories it has for everyone. It follows a pattern, just as a day, a year, a life follows a pattern. It is up to the individual to choose the pattern he will follow, just as the staff chose the pattern for this yearbook.

A pattern attempts to put things together so the important parts match up properly. We have tried to do that in the 1968 Trail.

Even as the unseen elements are important to a pattern, so are they important to a school. A school without individuals working together toward the same goals — whether they be surface or unseen elements — will not see the completion of its pattern as it could have been, should have been.

Although some projects may not be pictured, and some people missed the photographer, we believe they are still important, that unseen element that makes something good a little bit better.

May the Trail continue to be a part of your pattern.

active principals aid growth, improvement

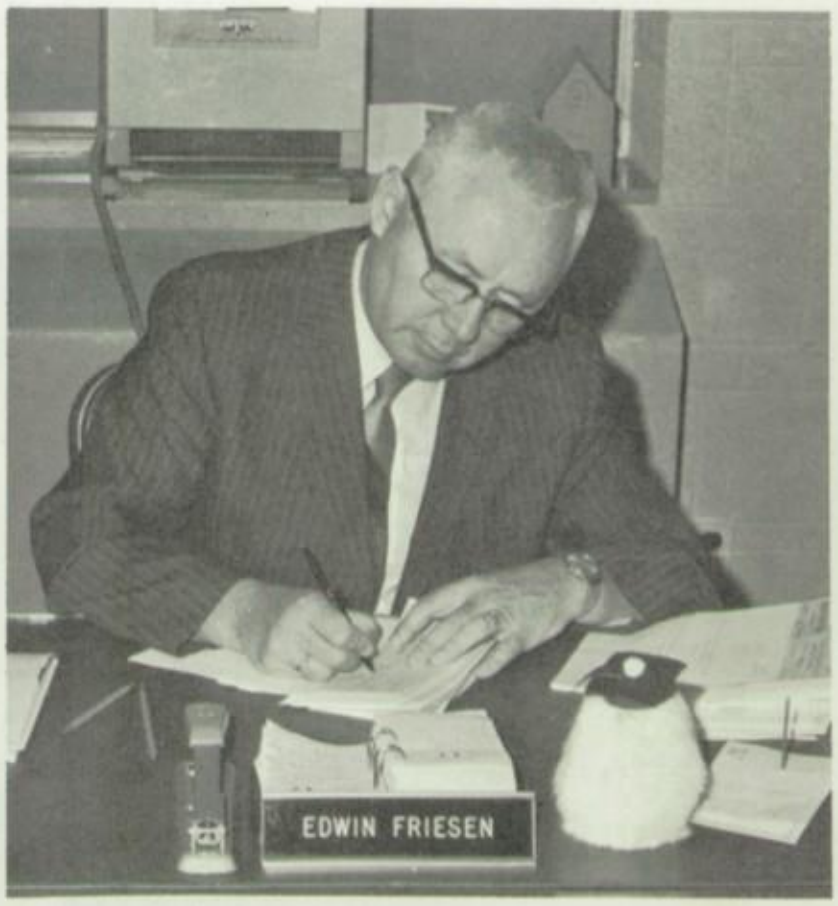
In the five years he has been principal at Wichita High School West, Dr. Edwin Friesen has seen the school grow from an enrollment of 1758 to 2257. He has kept aware of changes in education and developed the curriculum accordingly.

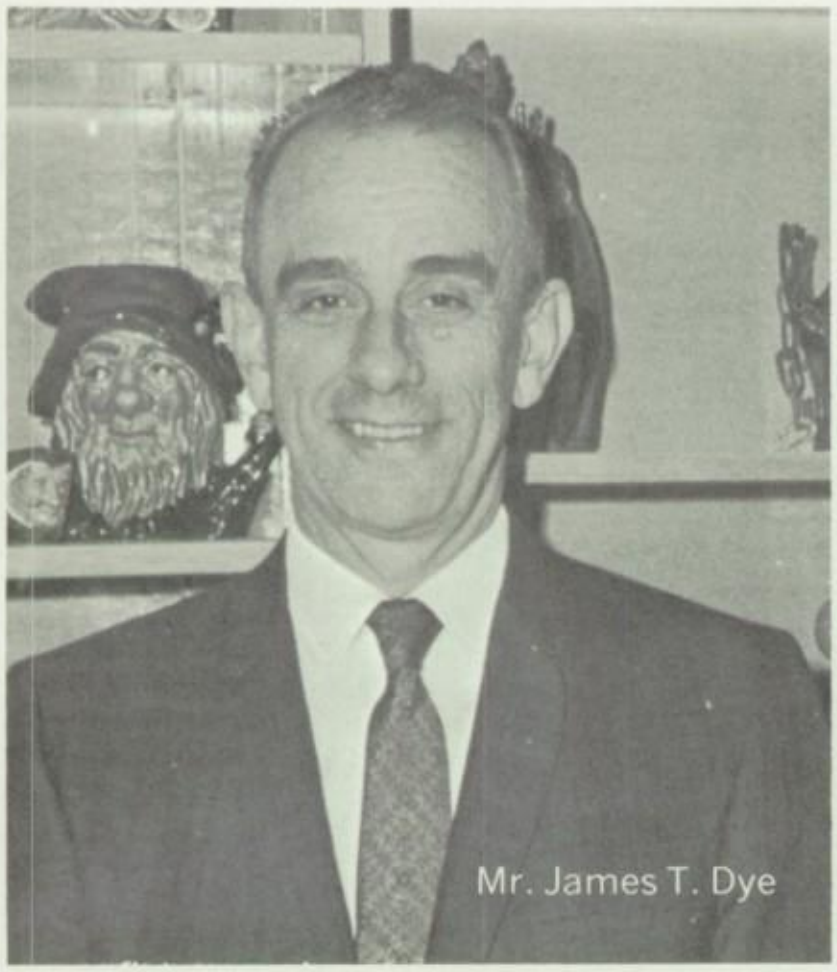
Besides his responsibilities at West, Dr. Friesen has assumed an active role with the Kansas State High School Activities Association, which regulates extra-curricular activities throughout the state. He went as its representative to a conference in Hawaii last summer.

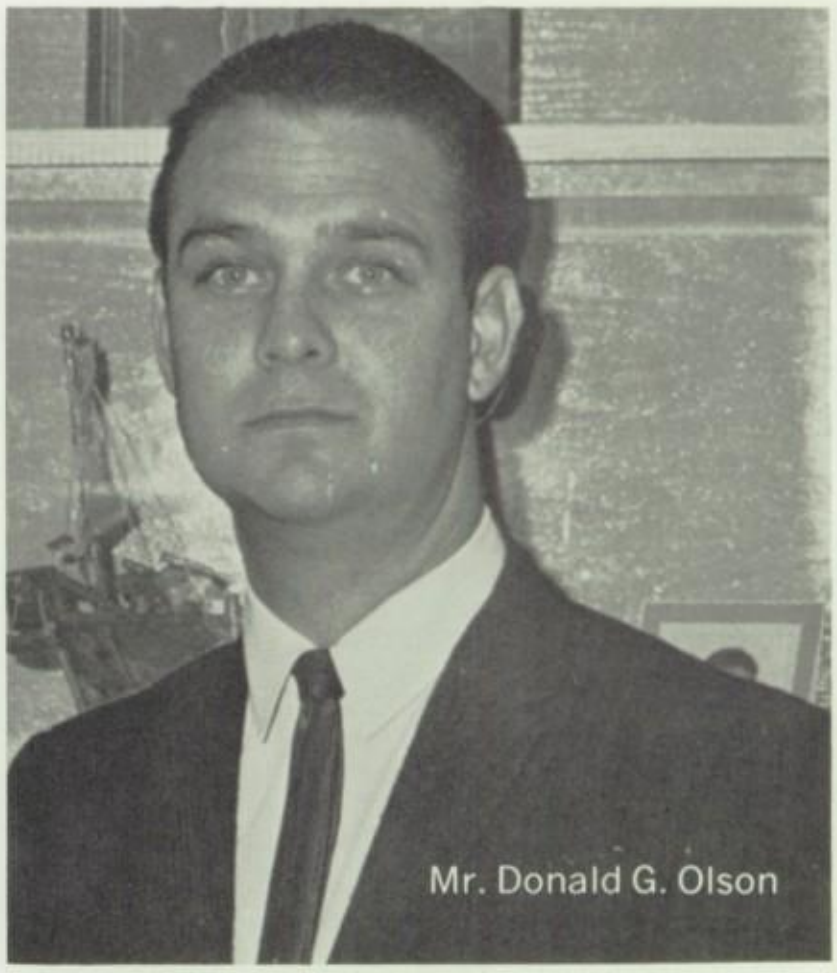
Mr. James Dye, the vice-principal, finds himself confronted with scheduling and discipline problems. The IBM system, now in its second year at West, makes extra work for him in some instances. Mr. Dye has been at West since its opening, first in the Business Department, and then as vice-principal.

Mr. Donald Olson left the Business Department to become assistant principal just two and one-half years ago. His main duties center around activities, their projects, records, finances, and scheduling.

The chief administrator catches up on correspondence during a busy day.







During lunch hour, Mr. Dye pauses a moment to watch students pass.

Mr. Donald Olson confers with Mrs. Evelyn Winger, schedule clerk.

Last-minute instructions are given before the annual Snake Dance to boost spirit for the Ark City game.

school spirit shows many faces, costumes

Being admitted through the gate to the Homecoming game are Brad Proesch, Barney Carr, Doug Young, Alvin Majors, and Tim Brandt.

School spirit is seldom confined to the playing field; it shows itself in the stands, on the field or floor at half-time, at the ticket lines before the game, and is most evident on the streets after a victory.

With spirits still high at the close of the Homecoming game, the cheerleaders lead the alma mater.

Throughout the year in order to boost the spirit before important games, a pep assembly was held. During these assemblies the coaches and players were introduced and the coaches told the assembly the team's plans and chances.

The band, pep club, student body, and teachers attended. These assemblies helped boost the spirit of the students and gave the teams a more confident feeling.

Coach Harold Brandenburg introduces the football players at one of the pep rallies.

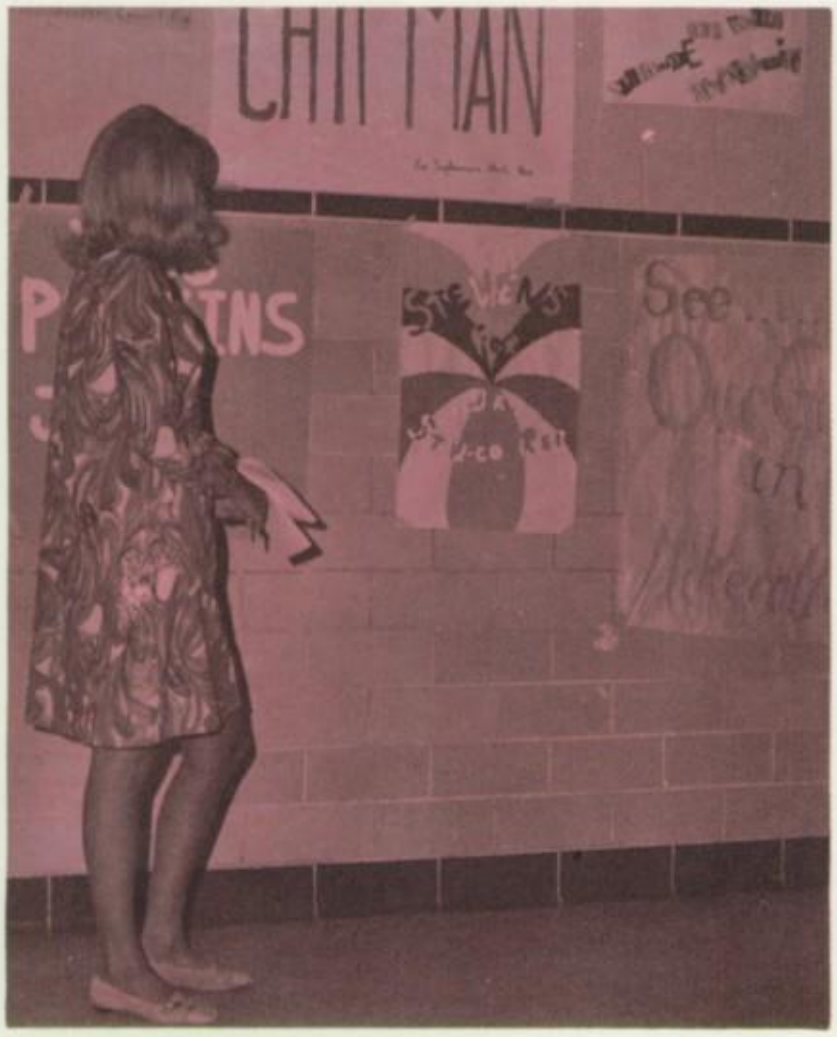
Raising spirit before the Southeast game are some of the Junior Pep Club girls.

voters submit to campaigns, select leaders



Diane Chipman surveys her brother's election poster for the Student Council elections.

Plans for running for class offices must be made long before the actual elections. Hopeful candidates must submit petitions signed by classmates before they can begin campaigns.

Voting, speeches, and varied approaches to campaigning were utilized in the selection of class leaders for the year. Each class attended an assembly to listen to the speakers tell of their qualifications and appeal to class members for their votes. Speakers who were candidates for major offices were each allowed two minutes speaking time. Representatives were given only fifteen seconds to appeal for votes.

The actual voting took place in the foyer during study halls and lunch periods. Booths were set up early in the morning and Student Council members checked voters and distributed ballots.

There were disappointments for some, and congratulations and installation for the chosen few as the winners were pledged to do their best for their classes.

Conscientious students ponder in the voting booths before marking their ballots.

Seniors applaud the efforts of a candidate running for office.

Sophomores find their seats during the preparation of the orientation assembly.

When one views the empty stage, memories of different things that took place there return. First of all, the administration presented an orientation assembly to acquaint newcomers with some of the rules and traditions of West.

Students became better acquainted with school leaders when they were installed. Teasers were presented before plays in order to preview them and invite people to see the full production.

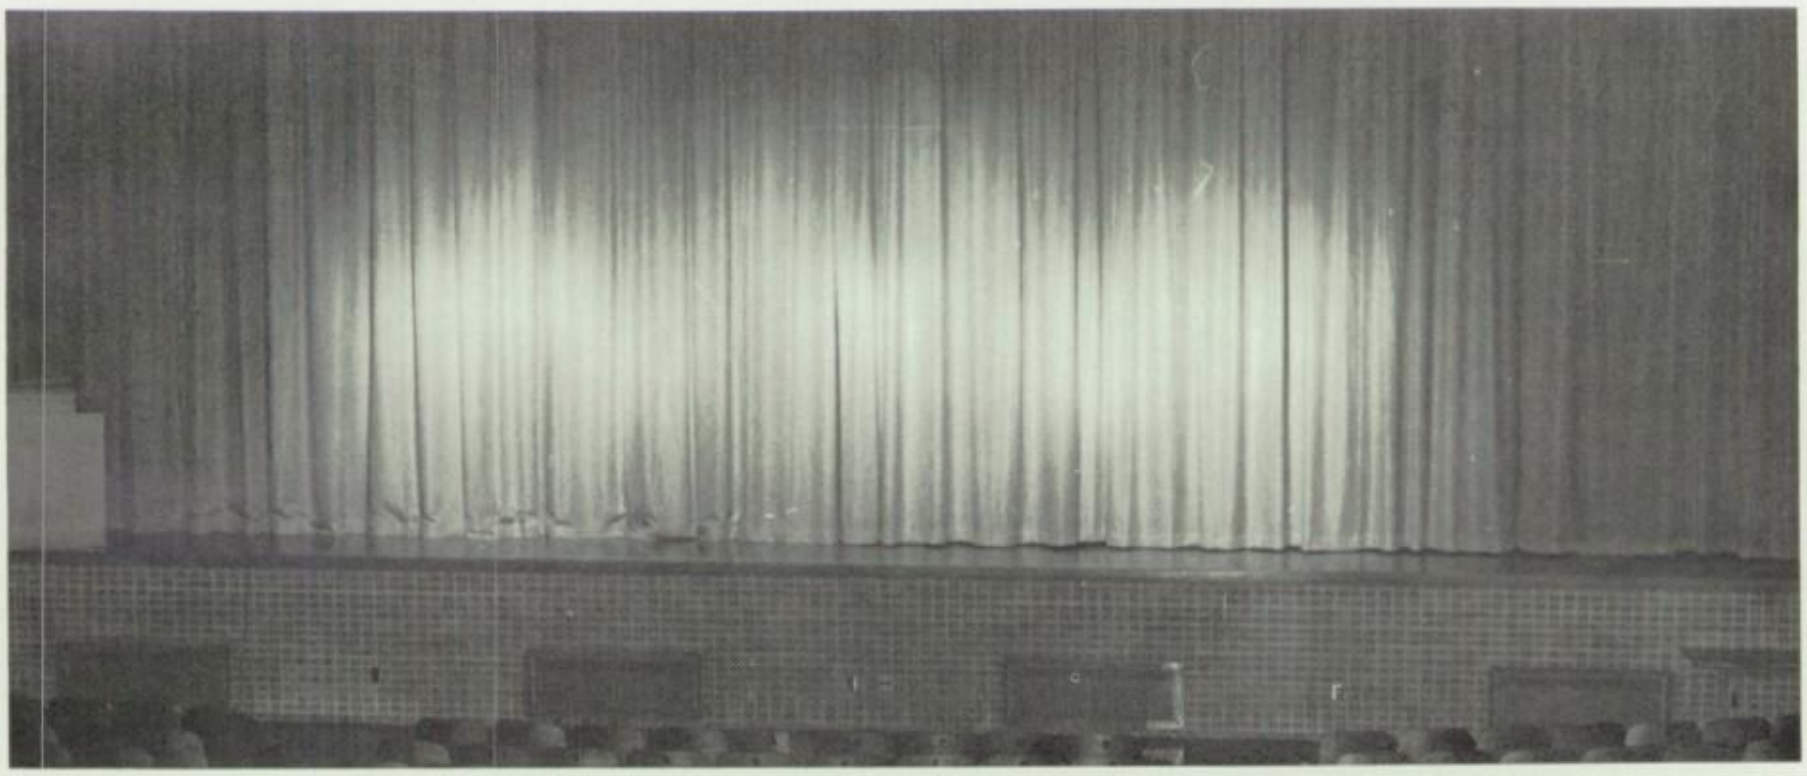
Eagerly anticipated were the sophomore-junior talent assembly and, of course, the senior assembly. The "Toys for Tots" auction provided an hour of entertainment for students as well as Christmas gifts for needy children.

Other assemblies offered travel experience and insight through films and speakers.

Students filed into the auditorium to see the installation of officers.

During assemblies the Security Guard checks the halls for gyppers.

Gary Scharnhorst is sworn in as senior class president during the installation assembly.



The spotlight shines on an empty stage before a performance begins.

Those who attend second assembly try to find something to do besides study.

In the moments before school D-Corridor is the gathering place for most of the students who have arrived.

building comes alive, shelters all activities

Just as each year has a pattern, so is there a pattern for each day. The day begins early as the custodians and engineers prepare for the arrival of students, some of whom arrive hours before the tardy bell.

The pattern of the day naturally includes classes. The hours and minutes spent outside the classroom are the ones that may be longer remembered than those spent listening to lectures and writing assignments, however.

No doubt the mere mention of a cafeteria brings back memories — of the eternal lines, perhaps of the new snack line, and certainly of the senior table, the jokes and gossip that passed along there, and the food that was consumed during all the lunch hours.

And then there were the halls. Students and teachers literally placed their lives on the line when they attempted to hurry through the crowded corridors. Upperclass boys took it upon themselves to hold up the outer wall in D-corridor each morning. There were favorite gathering places for girl watching or boy watching, for gossip, and for last-minute goodbyes. There were always those few, of course, who went to class to study, to the library, or to one of the many before-school meetings or practices.

Diane Chipman, Greg Campbell, and Shirley Tharp prepare to leave after school has been dismissed.

Those same halls were quickly emptied when the dismissal bell sounded. Some stopped to buy candy; others made last-minute pleas with teachers to accept late assignments. Some hurried on to after-school jobs.

For a few, school went on. Athletes went out for practice. Sometimes, in inclement weather, they practiced running in the halls, but this time it's legal! Candidates and Pep Club girls utilized the minutes of calm to put up posters and banners, and then to take them down again.

Somehow, the pattern never seems to end. The lights burn far into the night as rehearsals, preparations, and maintenance go on and on and on and on.

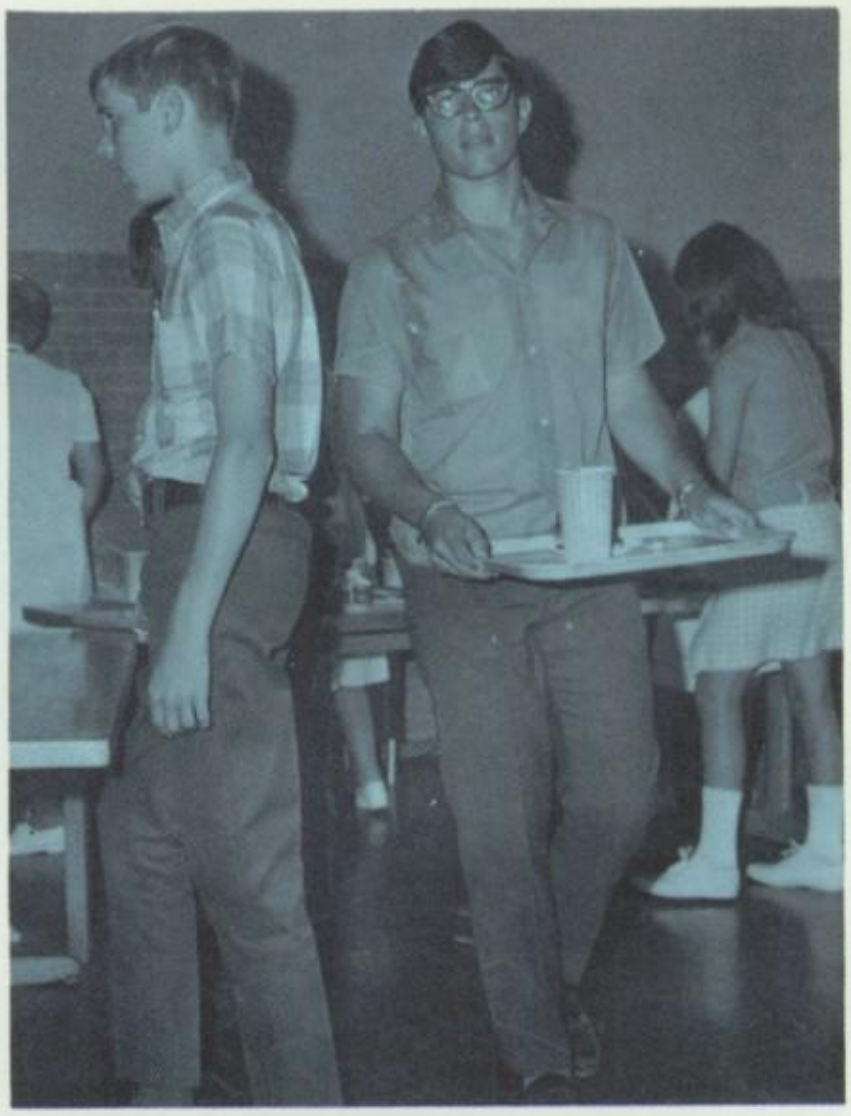
Helping with the victory banner before the East game are Romi Jessup, Dana Jenkins, and Connie Hukle.



Sophomores Greg Lippincott and Len Thomas utilize the new snack line.

Office Practice, Foods Service, and Clothing Maintenance classes assisted other departments and groups by furnishing them with time-saving assistance which also helped the classes in their learning experiences.

Library helpers and proctors assisted in the library, offices, and classrooms whenever there was a need for extra help.

Some projects carried over outside the school. Among those were the fund raising efforts for the United Fund, the making of baby clothes and children's clothes for Viet Nam and Africa, and numerous Christmas-time projects carried on by clubs.

"Mikerella," a take-off on Cinderella, is presented by the Student Council to raise money for the United Fund.

Sewing costumes for "Brigadoon" in the Clothing Maintenance class are Belinda Smith, Margie Estes, and Barbara Loucks.

winter carnival raises project funds

In order to raise funds for the all-school project, Frontier Frolics was held. Clubs of the school participated by setting up and operating booths. Some were ones in which participants could try their skills and others were ones at which some could try their skills on others.

There were seventeen booths in all at the carnival. A small admission fee was charged to enter. The climax of the evening was an all-star faculty basketball game. The basketball players were the coaches and referees. It was a successful and fun-filled evening for all who attended.

Club activities are always supervised by a faculty member, and the parties and money-raising projects are always attended by many. After-school meetings are scheduled and they discuss future plans and events, make budget requests, and obtain needed information about policies and upcoming functions.

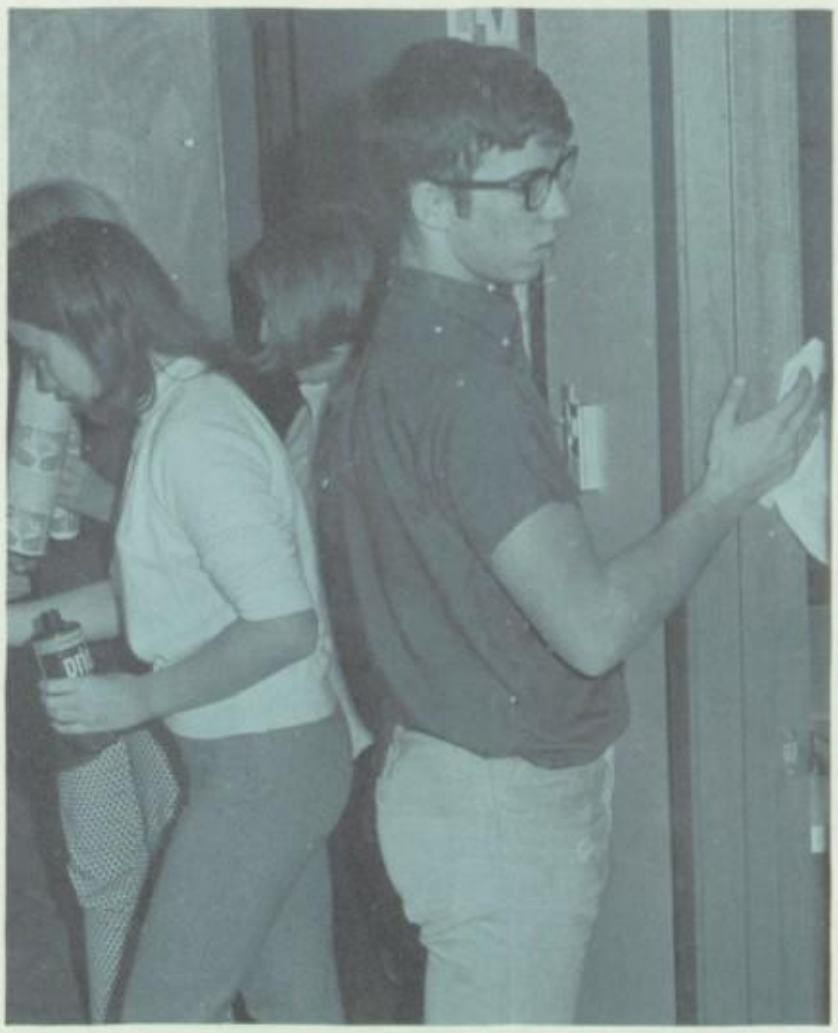
Being human — in spite of rumors to the contrary — each teacher has a home life and hobbies and interests of his own. Some engage in after-hours work at clothing stores, service stations, barber shops, or even in the buying and selling of used cars and airplanes.

Just-for-fun hobbies include travel, refinishing furniture, collecting antiques, and sewing.

Most teachers support families and maintain homes, so they, too, look forward to hurrying home after school to handle the usual household routine, cook dinner, or make some necessary repairs. Many have children enrolled in other schools, so they are expected to attend meetings and functions of those schools as well as those at West.

In order to keep teaching certificates valid and to upgrade teaching skills, teachers are required to obtain more college credits within a specified time. Some travel to other towns for Saturday or evening classes, and others take advantage of local offerings.

All in all, faculty members find their time well taken up by a variety of activities.



The Gabrielsons moved into a new home and Mrs. Shirley Gabrielson persuaded journalism students Diane Pledger, Paula Hendrix, Jeanne Heatherly, and Jack Garlach to assist with the initial polishing.

seniors

year of tradition has beginning with mums

To the class of '68 the year brought the responsibility, leadership, and privileges for which they had waited two years. Upperclassmen found that setting good examples for the sophomores and juniors wasn't as difficult as it had seemed the year before. Priority was gained as the incoming seniors took over the senior row in the parking lot, along with two senior tables.

The eagerness and awkwardness of the sophomore year, the pride that came with the arrival of the class rings, all this had been left behind and replaced by a feeling of anticipation as ordinarily routine activities took on a special significance, for the seniors knew there would be no more firsts.

The junior year is a year of change. For many juniors, the self-consciousness and strangeness of their sophomore year was replaced by a feeling of self-assurance.

Familiarity with West and its customs enabled the juniors to participate confidently in many school activities. Ordering class rings, collecting material for their research themes, and planning the junior-senior prom were events faced by this year's class.

As the year drew to a close, rings were turned and the class of '69 prepared to accept the responsibilities and traditions of being West High Seniors.

Steve Sims, '69, ponders a question on an important test.

Buses begin the wait for their loads just before 3:30. Some, tired after a day's work, climb aboard slowly; others are eager to begin the homeward conversation.

new pioneers learn, become integral part

Feeling at home in a new school with hundreds of new faces is a difficult task, but sophomores soon learned that they were an integral part of life at West.

This year's sophomores experienced many firsts — including a memorable sophomore-junior assembly, as well as royalty and cheerleaders of their own.

This was not only a time for experience, but also a time for change. Each sophomore found that high school offered a wider range of possibilities for participation and education, and learned to adjust to a more active schedule.

By the end of the year these sophomores had become a part of the spirit and pride of West and were ready to take their places as juniors.

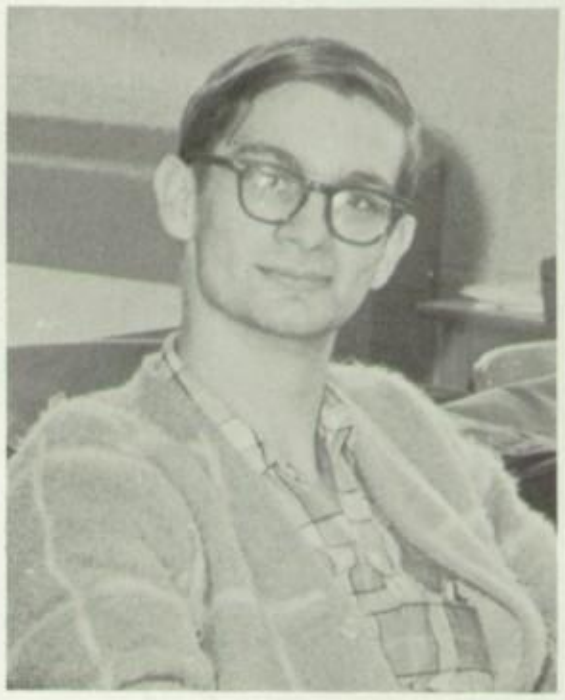
participation, interests bring rewards

For the fourth time, the Trail staff presents the Trail Blazers, students who are chosen in cooperation with the Trail staff and faculty, from a list of seniors who have maintained at least a 3.0 average through four years of high school. Other considerations include leadership, citizenship, and general contributions to the welfare of the school.

These students open the paths for oncoming classes. They may have set records or goals for other students to work toward, to achieve or to surpass. Trail Blazers are truly that — people who have shown that they are able to lead and to work for a better future.



Gary Scharnhorst has been an outstanding debator and actor during his three years at West. He moved up from Vice-President to President of the Junior Class which enabled him to handle the Junior-Senior Prom of 1967. He was elected President of the Senior Class and led his classmates in the many significant projects of their last year. Other activities have included Student Council, Honor Society, Thespians, church work, Boys' State, and band.

DeLee Droll was named Miss Sweetheart of Wichita during her junior year. Her primary contribution to the school has been in her roll as cheerleader and finally, head cheerleader, where she was able to initiate new cheers and movements. She has a strong interest in dance, free exercise, and gymnastics, and has performed in plays and assemblies and has done some choreography.

Carol Price served as President of Future Teachers of America. She has been an outstanding musician during her three years at West, serving as accompaniest to most of the vocal groups as well as participating in others. She has been a member of Pep Club and Student Council and a dependable student in all ways. Carol was elected West's Best in addition to her other honors. She plans to be a teacher and participated in the Volunteer Tutoring Program in preparation for that goal.

Harvey McQuiston applied his language abilities in Spanish as he spent a summer studying under the Foreign Language League in Spain. He also has been a member of Spanish Club. Harvey has been active in Scout work; as an Explorer, he gave speeches for Kiwanis clubs and others. As a junior, he was Lieutenant Governor of Key Club, and was voted to be President as a senior Nancy Roland served as assistant editor of the West Word as a junior and took over the duties of Editor-in-Chief as a senior. She led her newspaper staff through a year of improved issues, and larger ones. Her other activities have included playing flute in the band and pep band, being active in Future Teachers of America, and actively participating in the Student Council where she served on various committees.

Melody Zody began her Student Council work as a representative and was elected President for 1967-68. She has served on Pep Club Cabinet Council. Melody has also done work in debate, forensics, and music. Perhaps her outstanding award came when she received an Elks Outstanding Youth Award; she was one of two winners in Kansas and was eligible for national awards and scholarships. Student Council accomplished several projects under her leadership.

Expressing an opinion at one of the weekly Student Council meetings is junior representative Lesley Long.

student council

all-school projects, activities unite clubs

As every form of life has an outlet, so does student government serve as a valuable form of self expression. This expression took form in many of the projects which were attempted.

A "Toys for Tots" assembly was sponsored by Student Council to raise money and toys, which were sent to the Marine Corps for further distribution through "Operation Holidays."

Muscular and graceful boys from various athletic squads assisted in assembling "Mikerella," a money-raising project for the United Fund.

Additional projects included flicker nights, fun nights, and magazine sales.

Student Exchange Day was organized among all the city schools to promote better inter-school relations and to give members of student councils an opportunity to visit other schools and meet new people.

Another activity was the decorating of the halls before Christmas when all clubs participated. Perhaps the biggest activity of the year was Frontier Frolics, in which all the clubs again participated. Proceeds went to the All-School Project.

Photographer Jack Garlach dries a picture for a deadline.

When a student enrolls in a journalism class, he is usually not aware of the many events that take place in that class. Students do everything in writing, from attacking a policy or idea in the school or community, to writing a sports story. Then there are many other significant jobs, such as writing headlines, working on sorting or mailing of the many issues which are mailed to subscribers, selling the newspapers themselves, checking and recording in the files to see how many times a student is in the paper, or perhaps drawing a cartoon.

A student in a class such as this learns out of necessity to be a good writer, and also learns much about world situations and current events. He also becomes more aware of the newsworthy things that are happening around the school. Advertising was sold, which made the journalists come closer in contact with the business world.

At the beginning of the year, meetings were held to discuss color distribution, themes, division page and cover designs, page layouts, and, of course, finances. The staff attended a yearbook workshop, which was sponsored by American Yearbook Company, to help them formulate ideas. This included adding color to every section, and lengthening the yearbook.

large memberships choose careers early

Future Teachers of America followed an active schedule throughout the year. During their meetings, members were shown films and held panel discussions. Among the guest speakers were a student teacher and a women who talked on how to teach the blind.

Participating in school activities, Future Teachers placed second in the Christmas decorating contest and sponsored an all-school playnight.

Outside of school, the members of Future Teachers attended the state FTA convention at Manhattan and an all-day workshop at Wichita State.

Future Medical Careers Club had a busy year. Speakers and films were brought in to cover the two topics which the members chose to discuss during club period.

The March of Dimes assembly was sponsored by Future Med. Club. A bake sale was held and candy was sold after school in order to provide a scholarship for a person who planned to go into the medical profession.

Late in the year, the club took a trip to Oklahoma City in order to take a tour through the medical school there.

ambitious group exhibits work, plans trip

One of the larger clubs this year was Art Club, sponsored by the Art Department, with approximately eighty members. Members of this club are required to be enrolled in an art course and to participate in various activities sponsored by the club.

Members of the club helped paint scenery and sets for an all-school play "Brigadoon" and also participated in the all-school play-night, "Frontier Frolics." Club period was utilized to help get exhibits ready for a Scholastic Art Show and an exhibit by West High students at WSU.

At the close of the 1967-68 debate season, the West debaters, under the direction of Mr. Glenn Blakemore, were able to announce the best season in the history of debate at West.

Gary Scharnhorst and Dan Pierce brought home first experience trophies from Fredonia, Derby, and Bethel College tournaments. Allen Linder and John Pfeifer earned a first novice trophy at Derby and a first experience at Wellington. Allen and Gary claimed a third experience prize at El Dorado and Lane Lloyd and Tom Rudkin brought home a fourth experience award from Wichita Heights.

Bob Haun and Kathy Becker earned a third novice trophy at Augusta. A fourth novice award was claimed at Medicine Lodge by Carol Stevens and Judy Renz.

Club period is used by the French Club to carry out a program planned by their executive council. During club period, first and second-year French students performed skits which were done entirely in French to help the students in the language. Two of the skits done were "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" and "Little Red Riding Hood." Students also viewed movies of French landmarks and churches.

The club participated in the all-school decorating contest and maintained the jail at Frontier Frolics.

skits, songs add to knowledge of others

Several Spanish Club members have learned to play the Spanish version of Hearts for amusement.

Lynn Lichty and Becky Janzen talk over German Club plans for the Frontier Frolics.

First and Second year Spanish students were eligible to be members of the Spanish Club. During the meetings the members wrote and performed skits which were spoken entirely in Spanish. Spanish games are also played. Speakers from Spain or Spanish speaking countries also came to give talks and tell the members of the life and the language of their country. During the year the club participated in the Toys for Tots assembly by donating a stuffed animal. They worked in the decorating contest at Christmas and operated the Wheel of Fortune at Frontier Frolics.

During its second year at West, German Club participated in all the all-school activities for clubs. Small plays, games, and movies were presented to give students the benefits of the language. Panel discussions of the German way of life were also held during club periods.

Key Club is a service club sponsored by the West Wichita Kiwanis. Members are selected on basis of grade averages and their leadership potential.

Among the services performed are refereeing at basketball games at the Y, and going to Camp High at the YMCA to clean and build up the camp grounds. They held a car wash and sold fire extinguishers. At Christmas and Thanksgiving they distributed food baskets to families in Wichita. Decorating B-corridor was their assignment for the Christmas decorating contest and they operated the dart throw at Frontier Frolics.

In the spring of the year, they attended the State convention for Key Clubs. The Lieutenant-Governor for the Southeast division of Kansas, Harvey McQuiston is from the West Key Club.

aid to others, respect applied as mottoes

Safety Club President, Cathy Wehby, places a ticket on an incorrectly parked car.

Red Cross Club's Motto was "If you can push somebody up the hill, it gives you a boost too," and the members lived up to it. This year they supplied chests and kits for overseas relief, participated in Operation Holiday, and gave a party for the children at St. Joseph Hospital.

Safety Club's goal was to instruct its members on the many aspects of safety. This was accomplished with the use of films and discussions during club period. The club's main project was supervision and control of the parking lot. In November some of the members attended the Governor's Safety Conference in Topeka.

class-affiliated groups propagate learning

During many of their club periods, members of the Reading Club viewed films or worked on reading improvement.

In order to give students in the reading center an opportunity to enjoy films, discussions of books, and consequently, to promote enjoyment of reading, the Reading Club was formed. This club took part in many all-school activities and held a Christmas party. To raise funds for their treasury, a continuous paper drive was held throughout the year.

The smallest club this year, the Science Club, spent much of its meeting time preparing projects for the Science Fair.

Their city trophy is on display in the library and holds a place of honor during meetings. In past years, there were inter-school competitions, which West usually won, but the club has not been able to find opponents from other schools for some time.

Home Economics Club, which was new this year, furnished an opportunity for interested girls to add to their knowledge and abilities in the area of home economics and to get to know the people who share the same interests. Their activities included such things as preparing and serving dinners and hearing speakers explain opportunities and problems in the field.

athletic achievements earn membership

Lettermen's Club accomplished many objectives that the club had strived for. One of the major projects was the purchase of a foul indicator for all basketball games played in the gym. The Sportsmanship Code Banner was finally completed and hung in the boys' gym.

The club had an enrollment of nearly one hundred lettermen who participated in the many club functions. Club members could always be seen selling programs, concessions, and booster buttons.

One of the major projects for the Letterwomen was the Junior High Playday that they sponsored to acquaint the students with the West gym facilities and activities. A girl could become a member of Letterwomen by accumulating enough points gained by participating in intramural sports.

preparation, hard work bring fun, profit

All-school projects helped unite the clubs and build friendships. It was through these combined efforts that students learned the true meaning of cooperation and what rewards it can bring.

The Toys for Tots assembly and auction was made possible through such combined efforts. Each group decided on some item which could be auctioned off for the points the students had obtained through donations of good used or new toys for the annual Marine Corps project. Auctioned items ranged from a slave-for-a-day to over-sized stuffed animals and real live pets.

The next of these projects was the traditional one of decorating the halls for Christmas. Student Council offered cash awards for the best decorations. These were won by the Home Economics Department, Future Teachers of America, and the new Distributive Education club.

Also, adding to the Christmas festivities was the second Cutest Claus contest sponsored by the West Word. Students cast penny votes for the cutest baby pictures furnished by faculty members. Winners of this honor for 1967 were Dr. Edwin Friesen and Mrs. Carol Emmons.

Clubs went their separate ways, meeting on alternate Wednesdays, until the new semester began. Then the competition increased as memberships were opened once again. Some changed clubs and others decided to participate.

The final all-school project was Frontier Frolics, again sponsored by the Student Council. Big plans were made as Clubs decided which booths to sponsor. All profits went to the fund which paid for the all-school project for 1967-68, carpeting the library.

The purpose of Pep Club is to promote school spirit among the student body. The girls spent much of their time involved in such activities as painting posters, cheering at the games, attending pep assemblies, and co-operating in the development of a victory banner.

In its second year of existence, Honor Pep gained more members as the girls worked to support the teams. To be admitted to Honor Pep, the members had to accumulate 150 points during football season. These points were gained by work on the things listed above. To remain in Honor Pep, a member was required to go to all but four varsity basketball games, attend one regional game and all but two meetings, make twenty posters, and attend a combination of seventy minor sports activities.

During the year, several contests were held. In the float contest at the homecoming game, the junior class placed first, with the sophomore class second, and the senior class third. In the poster contest, the juniors again placed first. The posters were judged on such points as the quality and quantity of posters and the carrying out of the theme.

Results of the enthusiastic Pep Club spirit were manifested in the amount of school spirit exhibited at all the games, the gym walls vibrating with cheers at the pep assemblies, and the halls being plastered with posters.

polished performances mark of singers

Mr. J. Ellis Jackson led the vocal music groups through an active year. Mrs. Judy Fear taught half-time at West and directed the Sophomore Girls Glee Club.

Hi-Larks was a group made up of ten of the school's best vocalists; they performed at all musical programs at the school as well as at several special functions. These included club meetings for civic organizations as well as such events as the Student Council sponsored Honor Roll Tea in February.

Another group made up of some of West's best singers is Westerners. They also performed for civic groups and special occasions.

The larger groups, Choir, Men of West, and Sophomore Girls Glee Club, sang at the several concerts and assemblies which were planned by the Vocal Music Department.

Repertoire for the groups ranged from very classical to semi-classical, show tunes, and some of the contemporary numbers.

The West High School Symphonic Band was composed of a well-balanced instrumentation, to provide opportunities for performance and to allow advancement of musical understanding. They marched at all home football games and provided entertainment at assemblies at West and at junior highs. In addition, the band and orchestra performed at full-length concerts during the year, and participated in both the city and state festivals. The orchestra provided students with the opportunity to perform some of the fine symphonic literature, both works by the masters as well as contemporary composers. This year, members played for "Brigadoon" and accompanied the Choir in their annual presentation of the "Messiah."

The orchestra also performed for full-length concerts and junior high assemblies. As a highlight to the year, the orchestra spent one day entertaining students at Mound Ridge and Inman high schools.

beginners spend long hours at practice

Members of the Pep Band met second hour and worked together to add to school spirit. These students combined co-ordination, consideration, and poise to participate in many intricate formations on the football field. The students played at all the home games, pep assemblies; and, during football season, combined with the concert band for half-time entertainment.

Sophomore Girls Glee Club was composed of girls who wanted a chance to develop their singing skills. This was accomplished by participation in several concerts. A sophomore ensemble was formed to sing in the Sophomore-Junior talent assembly.

Members of the pep band take time out to rest between practice sessions.

Membership in Thespian Troupe No. 1327 was granted to those who had earned at least ten points working on plays. The club's purpose was to promote interest and encourage participation in all forms of theater activities.

At the end of the year, the Thespians put on their annual play, which they staged and directed on their own. A banquet was also held at the end of the year at which acting and best Thespian awards were presented, and officers for next year announced.

true love brings about one more miracle

The story of Brigadoon unfolded magically to the audience through gay dances, delightful songs, and the outstanding acting abilities of the cast.

The curtain opened on two Americans, Tommy Albright and Jeff Douglas, who were lost in the Scottish Highlands. They soon discovered the mysterious village of Brigadoon and almost immediately were captivated by the charm of the inhabitants.

Tommy and Jeff were puzzled by what they had heard, and their inquiries led them to Mr. Lundie, who told them of the miracle the town's reverend had asked for, and the conditions under which it was granted.

At the end of the day, just as Brigadoon was vanishing in the mist, Tommy gave up his plans to stay in Brigadoon with Fiona, with whom he had fallen in love, and went back to New York with Jeff.

Haunted by the memory of Fiona, Tommy went back to Brigadoon to spend his life with the one he loved.

The complete cast lines up for a final curtain call.

the night of January 16th

audience becomes jury in authentic setting

The Winter play, "The Night of January 16," was presented January 9, 11, and 13. Two of the performances were at the Sedgwick County Court House; the first one was in the high school auditorium for students.

This play was the murder trial of a young woman who was accused of throwing her employer off the roof of his New York penthouse.

The play itself was rather unusual in that the jury was selected from the audience. Slips of paper were signed by viewers who were willing to accept jury duty, and twelve names were picked at random from these.

The cast never really knew what the verdict would be at the end, but they were ready with two endings.

Karen Andre was found not guilty at two performances, and at the last performance, she was found guilty.

King Larry Sommerhauser and Queen Cathy O'Connor open the gifts which serve as souvenirs of this special evening.

On Saturday, October 28, "Kick-Off Kapers" opened to the music of the Downbeats. The annual Homecoming dance was sponsored by the Pep Club to celebrate the closing of the football season. Centerpieces on the tables were miniature covered wagons with the theme written on the side.

DeLee Droll and Jim White reigned as king and queen at the dance. Junior attendants were Susan Eubank and Kirk Doll. An added line of royalty new this year were the sophomore attendants, Sue Imboden and David Butler.

Winter Carousel, the senior-class sponsored dance was held on Saturday, February 3, and was attended by about 240 people. Music was provided by The Lion's Mane.

Co-chairmen of the Coronation Committee, Linda Kraus and Linda Downing, were forced to find a replacement when one of the crown-bearers became ill.

Queen Cathy O'Connor received a necklace bearing the West High crest, and King Larry Sommerhauser was presented with a similar tie tack.

Decorations for the dance were designed by Nan Daughterty and Linda Volz. Two shades of blue were predominant in the color scheme and small carousels were placed at each table as a centerpiece.

Under the direction of a new coaching staff headed by Mr. Harold Brandenburg, the Pioneers ended a successful season.

The Pioneers went into the season with a thirty-three game winning streak and the pressure was really on them as they dropped the first game to Ark City.

After their first setback, the squad began to roll against Heights, but then ran into a brick wall. Three consecutive losses — to Southeast, North, and East — virtually killed all hopes of West winning a fourth-straight City League Title.

Bradenburg's team, in the following weeks after losing to East, hit its stride and tucked away the four final games.

The final assault began against South when the team completely out-played and shut-out South. Then the team traveled to Newton where West played one of their best games of the season and beat Newton soundly. After beating Newton, the Pioneers looked like the perennial powerhouse of the previous three years as they put a foothold on third place by swamping Kapaun.

The final game was played against Bishop Carroll where West gained third place in the City League and ended a season of many hardships.

soph, b teams end fateful seasons

The "B" team opened the season by rolling over East, but the following week lost to a stout team from Kapaun.

After squeaking by North and Carroll, the squad ran into trouble. The final two games were hard-fought battles with the opponents, Heights and South, coming out with the victories.

The Sophomore team's record may appear to be unimpressive, but it is no indication of how well the team performed.

In their only victory, the Baby Pioneers showed unhidden power by defeating Carroll. Many of their games were lost by no more than six points. The squad played many games right down to the finish only to have the opponent come out on top.

Jim Parks strains to beat teammate Norman Mehl in the West Invitational

With a plentiful supply of returning lettermen in cross country, West closed out its season with a good showing at Wamego where the state meet was held. Coach Ray Graham's harriers proved to be a stubborn team in the competition as they gained two first places in invitationals. They won the West and Heights Invitationals by showing strong team effort with many good individual performances. In other competition the team placed third in the East Invitational, fifth in the Emporia Invitational, sixth in the North Invitational, and third in the Southeast Invitational.

In the City League Meet, West gained fourth place, then went on to the regionals where the team tied Heights to gain a third place berth to go on to the state meet. At the state meet, the harriers earned eighth place.

Led by seniors Norman Mehl and Jim Parks with help from juniors Steve Baker and John McCarthy, West showed an improved team from the previous year.

The finmen this year sent a strong and experienced squad to the state meet at Lawrence.

After getting off to a slow start in dual meet competition, Coach Ray Graham's swimmers picked up after three successive setbacks. The team lost its first three dual meets by a total of six points.

Led by senior Mike Helfrich and junior Dave Nix, the team placed fifth in the Wichita City League Meet.

The teams biggest assets at the state meet were Dave Nix and diver Dale Wilson. Nix placed second in 400-yard freestyle and third in 200-yard freestyle. Dale placed fifth in diving to give West a tenth place finish.

four pass regional tests, compete at state

Wrestling this past year took a turn for the better. Under the guidance of Coaches Robert Lytle and George Taylor, the team compiled an over-all season record of three wins and five losses in dual meet competition. The grapplers defeated Winfield, South, and Southeast. Many of the other dual meets were lost by only a few points.

Led by brothers Joe and Pat Morell, and Terry Bader, and Phil Meeks, the team placed high in district competition. In the regional, the matmen placed one who went on to the state meet at Arkansas City.

The "B" team had a very successful year closing the season with a first place finish at the "B" team Invitational Tournament. Dual meet competition found the team showing an impressive record over previous years.

well-rounded squad enjoys peak season

Led by seven seniors, the gymnastics team came out with an unusually successful season's record.

Team leaders Rick Green and Bob Blackburn placed high in regional competition and then went on to the state meet where the team ranked fifth. West took a first place at the North Invitational, a fifth at the East Invitational, and a fourth at the Medicine Lodge Invitational.

At the City League Meet, the gymnasts placed fourth.

After a slow start, the cagers progressed steadily, upsetting tenth-ranked North during the second half of the season. Starting the season with a strong showing against Shawnee Mission West, the Pioneers faced number-one ranked Southeast where the Buffs showed their superior prowess.

Following Southeast, the cagers ran into a hard-luck streak, winning only two of seven games prior to tournament competition.

In the West Invitational, West defeated Valley Center and Derby to gain a berth in the championship. In the finals, South defeated West 64-59 to gain the championship.

Entering the second-round action, the cagers defeated Kapaun, North, and Manhattan. The regionals saw West gain fourth place.

The "B" team completed a fine season with a final record of 10-6. The record is somewhat misleading because at one time during the season they lost three games in a row by a total of five points. Some consolation can be gained because they defeated every school except North at least once in the campaign.

This year's sophomore team had a successful season. Under the direction of new coach Mr. Kenneth Diskin, the team compiled a 6-6 record. The team suffered early season growing pains, and many had forecast a rather doubtful season.

The Baby Pioneers finally found themselves as a unit and won a fifth-place finish in city league play.

Pat,

You're the best friend I have ever had and I'm glad of it. We may have had a few little differences (fights), but we've always made up and been the bestest friends. We've gone from the early Beatles to the Mothers and the Cream and I hope we get through a lot more. If we thought any more alike than we do now we'd be the same person. Maybe we can transmit by ESP from college! Even after we're separated we can still see each other once in a while and write a lot. It'll be better than never ever hearing or seeing each other again. Too bad we aren't going to the same place. Before the summer is up we're going to have to have one great big blast that we'll never ever forget, not that I'll ever forget you because you're almost a part of me. I'm running out of things to say because I don't want this to sound like a love letter, but it sure does doesn't it! I hope you and Bob really make it. I really do. I'm sure you will. I'll even make you two a matching set of love beads. Too bad I don't have someone I can make them for (except for you that is)

This summer let's really have a time we'll never forget!!!!! We may be sorry, but we can try. Stafford or Bust..... Hurrah for Hippies!!! Hurrah for D. M. B. R. and maybe T. Hurrah for sex and open-minded people!!! Too bad we aren't more independent we could really have fun. We aren't though, so no use crying over spilt milk. I keep writing smaller and smaller and I wish I would quit it! Now I shall try to compose a poem just for you.

The beat goes on it never stops,
No one can stop it even cops
They may try and do their best,
But they can't stop the kids from west.

(Ha! Ha! Laugh, that's corny and it stinks so laugh.)

Best for ever and ever into the eternal cycloped of life.
Love!! makes the Love!! world go round.
Hope to see you much later

Sue

(This is sloppy writing but have you ever tried writing on your knee!)

Pat, you are a real sweet girl, and nice to know. Good luck in the years to come.
-Karen Clithero '68

Pat, You're the craziest senior I know (and mean how) I don't know how I'll react to graduating (I don't think it's a great experience) I'll miss you, I'll miss Dr. Deorse too. I dare think of horses, I'll miss dancing with you, I'll miss French with you, I'll really, really miss you and it's been a great experience of having you as a friend. I'll never forget you and I'll never believe you ever passed. Graduating, I'll miss dancing, I'll miss Good luck, Pat, you're a really great girl. Don't ever forget it. Don't wear anymore braces and don't get to know Humanities with too much - YES! I'll miss the person and it's been a pleasure knowing you. Don't wear anymore braces and don't get to know Humanities with too much - YES! I'll miss the pleasure knowing you. Don't wear anymore braces and don't get to know Humanities with too much - YES! I'll miss the pleasure knowing you. (especially Katie)

Pat,
This year has really been great but I'll always best remember our Physics escapades with Mr. Patton.
Luck always and be gooder,
Kathy Bell

Pat
We've been more than just lab partners and friends and shall Always be Rachel Goldstein

Pat, you've been a great friend and lab partner. I have had an excellent year because of you. Keep up the good work in Physics and I know you'll be successful in whatever you do. Best wishes always.
Joyce Whitlock

Pat,
Is a really sharp girl! Shad o
RIOT knowing you.
You are just so Wonderful and Terrific!!. Hope to be seeing you this summer! And if you go away write.
call, or do SOMETHING!! Be good (& you know I won't be here!)
